Corbyn 'too busy' for Queen body

JEREMY Corbyn has turned down the chance to be sworn in to the Privy Council amid continued uncertainty over whether he will declare allegiance to the Queen in person.

The Labour leader (above), a lifelong republican, had the chance to attend a meeting of the ceremonial body which formally advises the monarch, but declined – saying he had "prior engagements".

A spokesman refused to give details of the events, saying only that they were "private", but sources close to Mr Corbyn insisted it was not intended as a snub.

It was confirmed that he will attend a State Banquet at Buckingham Palace later this month in honour of Chinese President Xi Jinping along with other senior politicians.

Interest rates stay at 0.5%

THE Bank of England has kept interest rates on hold amid mounting gloom over the global economy and signs that ultra-low UK inflation is here to stay.

Members of the Bank's nine-strong Monetary Policy Committee voted eight to one to leave rates at 0.5%, where they have been since March 2009, in a repeat of voting numbers seen for the past two months.

Minutes of the MPC meeting confirmed the Bank's forecast for UK growth to slow to 0.6% in the third quarter, down from 0.7% in the previous three months.

GRINNING FACE OF TEEN, 18, ON PC HIT-RUN MURDER CHARGE

ACCUSED: Clayton Williams and (below) Philip Stuart

VICTIM: PC Phillips with his wife Jen

THIS is the teenager remanded in custody after appearing in court accused of the murder of PC Dave Phillips.

By ANN COATES
news@sundaysport.co.uk

But Clayton Ronald Williams wasn't grinning when he stood handcuffed to a prison officer in court, accused of stealing a Mitsubishi pick-up truck during a burglary and driving it at the officer, killing him.

The 18-year-old, of Wallasey, Merseyside, is also accused of attempting to cause grievous bodily harm with intent to PC Phillips's colleague, PC Thomas Birkett.

Williams faces additional charges of the initial burglary and aggravated vehicle taking of the pick-up truck, which was stolen during a break-in at an estate agents in Oxton, Merseyside, on Monday.

Williams, dressed in a grey T-shirt and jogging bottoms, spoke only to confirm his name and date of birth in a two-minute hearing at Wirral Magistrates' Court.

He was remanded in custody to appear at Liverpool Crown Court this morning.

Prosecutor Helen Graves asked the magistrates for the defendant to remain in handcuffs for the hearing. Three police officers guarded the door to the court, next to press benches crammed with reporters.

There was a heavy police presence both inside and outside the court. Williams kept his head down for most of the hearing, occasionally scanning the courtroom.

Nodded

He nodded as Alan Smith, chairman of the bench, told him he would be remanded into custody and replied, "Yeah," when asked if he understood proceedings.

The full charges against Williams state that the stolen Mitsubishi L200 Challenger was driven dangerously and that "additional aggravating factors were the murder of PC Phillips and attempted wounding of PC Birkett".

His co-accused, one-armed Philip Mark Stuart, 30, of Prenton, Wirral, has also been charged with burglary and aggravated unauthorised taking of a car. He was remanded in custody until October 22 when he will appear at Liverpool Crown Court for a preliminary hearing.

Three women, aged between 19 and 59, and a 39-year-old man, who were arrested on suspicion of assisting an offender, have all been released on bail pending further inquiries.

PC Phillips, 34, was trying to use a "stinger" type device to puncture the pick-up truck's wheels when he was struck on Dock Road, Wallasey, in the early hours of Monday.

The officer, who has a wife Jen, 28, and two daughters, Abigail, aged seven, and Sophie, aged three, was pronounced dead in hospital a short time later.

Brit troops in Baltic to deter Putin

BRITAIN is to station a "small number" of troops in the Baltic states in a further move to deter Russian aggression, Defence Secretary Michael Fallon has said.

Arriving for a meeting of NATO defence ministers in Brussels, Mr Fallon (above) said the move was intended to reassure former Soviet bloc members of the alliance.

He said: "This is further reassurance for our allies on the eastern flank of NATO – for the Baltic states and for Poland.

"That is part of our more persistent presence on the eastern side of NATO to respond to any further provocation and aggression."

Mr Fallon said the British troops would be part of a new NATO training, evaluation and capacity-building mission in Poland and the Baltic states of Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia.

The move comes against a backdrop of heightened tension between the West and Moscow, following President Putin's decision to launch air strikes in Syria.

Cycle death lorry driver faces court

A LORRY driver has been ordered to appear in court over the death of a "Boris bike" cyclist.

Claire Hitier Abadie, 36, was in collision with a lorry in Victoria, central London, during the morning rush-hour on February 19.

She died at the scene.

Alan Warwick, 61, from Rayleigh, Essex, has been summonsed to appear at Westminster Magistrates' Court on October 21 accused of causing death by careless driving, Scotland Yard said.

French-born Mrs Hitier Abadie was the fourth cyclist to die in London this year.

She moved to London last year with her hubby Pierre, who works for Total Gas and Power at Canary Wharf.

TITANIC SOGGY BISCUIT SALE

WHAT could be the world's most valuable biscuit is to be sold at auction.

The Spillers and Bakers "Pilot" biscuit survived the sinking of the Titanic in 1912, in which around 1,500 people died.

It was part of a survival kit stored within one of the ill-fated ocean liner's lifeboats and was kept as a souvenir.

It will now go under the hammer at Henry Aldridge & Son auctioneers in Devizes, Wilts, on October 24 and is estimated to sell for £8,000 and £10,000.

The biscuit was kept by James Fenwick, who was a passenger onboard the SS Carpathia, which went to the aid of survivors from the Titanic.

He put the snack in a Kodak photo envelope along with a note which stated "Pilot biscuit from Titanic lifeboat April 1912".

Head auctioneer Andrew Aldridge said: "We don't know which lifeboat the biscuit came from but there are no other Titanic lifeboat biscuits in existence.

"It is incredible that this biscuit has survived such a dramatic event – the sinking of the world's largest ocean liner, costing 1,500 lives.

"It is the world's most valuable biscuit."

Soap's first tranny joins EastEnders

EASTENDERS has made British soap history by casting a transgender actor to play a transgender character on the show.

Riley Carter Millington, 21, is set to join the cast playing transgender Kyle.

Viewers will get a brief glimpse of him on screen later this month, before the character returns permanently at the end of the year.

EastEnders is Millington's first acting role, and he said: "I am extremely excited to be joining EastEnders.

"I can honestly say that I have now fulfilled my two biggest dreams – to be living my life as a man and to be an actor.

"I cannot wait to really get stuck in with filming and I look forward to seeing what is in store for my character."

Executive producer Dom Treadwell-Collins referenced previous storylines such as Mark Fowler's HIV and Colin and Barry's first gay kiss, saying that the soap has "always led the way in changing audience's perceptions about 'difference'.

Kim popped cherry at 14

CURVY Kim Kardashian popped her cherry at the age of 14, according to a new book on the star.

Well before her famous sex tape with former fella Ray J shot her to fame, the pregnant socialite got down and dirty with pal Tito Joe Jackson – the nephew of Prince of Pop Michael Jackson.

The adolescent romp has been detailed in new biography Kim by author Sean Smith.

Kim, now 34, previously told how her mum Kris had put her on the pill just a few months earlier, as the youngster began to think about taking the plunge.

She said: "When I did want to have sex the first time I was almost 15.

"I was like, 'I think I'm going to, or I want to,' and she was like, 'OK, so this is what we're gonna do, we're gonna put you on birth control."

Twitter twits think Mars flick is true

DOZY Twitter fans have gone online to admit they think Matt Damon's new film The Martian – about an astronaut who gets stranded on Mars – is based on a true story.

Tweets from people who watched the Ridley Scott sci-fi film reveal that a large number of people are unaware humankind has NEVER set foot on Mars.

One user, called Ronin, posted: 'Just found out The Martian isn't based on a true story, honestly pretty disappointed.'

Brian Maher said: 'Heard a girl say to her boyfriend on the way out of The Martian "was that true story?" I couldn't believe he didn't dump her on the spot!'

And it was not just young people making the mistake.

Richie Abruscato tweeted: 'As great as The Martian was, my favorite part was after when my grandma asks if it was based on a true story.'

Terrorism funds suspect in court

A MAN has appeared in court charged with three counts of funding terrorism.

It is alleged Syed Hoque, 36, from Stoke-on-Trent, Staffs, "entered into or became concerned" in arrangements for thousands of pounds in cash and property to be used for terrorism.

Mr Hoque, who yesterday appeared at Westminster Magistrates' Court, is accused of taking part in an agreement for £3,000 available for that purpose on or before December 21, 2013.

And between October 1, 2013 and April 1, 2014, it is alleged that he entered an agreement to make £1,500 available.

Then between October 1, 2013, and April 1, 2014, he allegedly entered into another agreement to make property available which he knew or had reasonable cause to suspect would or may be used for terrorism.

Mr Hoque will next appear at the Old Bailey on October 30.

Towie Kate: I'm gonna put the SEX back in Essex!

THE ONLY WAHEY: Busty Kate says she's ready to 'mingle' on show

By JESS GALLEY
jess@sundaysport.co.uk

GORGEOUS Kate Wright is determined to put the SEX in ESSEX after she made her debut on TOWIE.

The sizzling 24-year-old, who made her first appearance on the hit reality show on Sunday, declared she is single and ready to mingle after splitting from fellow TOWIE star Dan Edgar.

Kate followed in his footsteps and signed up to star in the series, which saw her surprise the cast when she turned up in Marbella, Spain.

Single

The pretty blonde dated Essex boy Dan for four years but the pair split just before he joined the cast of the ITV Be show earlier this year.

The curvy newbie claims that her long-term love – who flirted with Jess Wright and locked lips with DJ Lauren Pope last series – dumped her out of the blue.

Now bank worker Kate says: "I'm very much single!"

She said she was hoping to avoid any awkward run-ins with her former flame – but it wasn't long before the exes were forced together on Sunday night's episode in Marbs nightspot Funky Buddha.

Busty Kate has joined the popular show, which is now in its 16th series, alongside fellow newcomer Michael Hassini.

14.5 million see Nadiya win Bake-Off

THE Great British Bake Off final, won by Nadiya Jamir Hussain, is the most watched television programme of the year.

Overnight ratings show that at its 8.55pm peak it was watched by 14.5 million, beating last year's figure of 13.3 million.

This year's final has also become the most watched non-sport programme on a Wednesday night since Christmas Day 2002.

BBC One's popular baking series has now replaced the May 30 final of ITV's Britain's Got Talent as the most watched show of 2015. It has also pushed the live "who killed Lucy?" episode of EastEnders broadcast on February 19 into third place.

Luton-born Bake Off champion Nadiya (above), 30, has her husband to thank for pushing her to apply for the show.

The stay-at-home mother said: "My husband Abdul said 'You should just do it, what's the worst that will happen?'."

Police probed after 'knife man' tasered & shot

WATCHDOGS have launched an investigation after a man was tasered and then shot by police.

The man was treated at hospital following the shooting in Brent, north-west London.

Officers were called to a disturbance at 2.45am and found the man, who was believed to have a knife.

A Scotland Yard spokesman said: "Officers discharged a taser but with no apparent effect on the man.

"Firearms officers attended in support of local officers and taser was discharged, again with no apparent effect.

"The man was then shot by police."

A spokesperson for the Independent Police Complaints Commission confirmed: "We are independently investigating. We have investigators at the scene."

BECKY NEIGHBOUR: I HEARD THEM DRAG HER BODY ACROSS THE FLOOR

SLAUGHTERED: Becky Watts and (far right) the accused Matthews and Hoare at a fancy dress event before Becky's death

A NEIGHBOUR heard a suitcase and heavy bags being dragged across the floor on the day Becky Watts was murdered, a court heard.

They were usually so quiet, court told

By KEVIN MANN
news@sundaysport.co.uk

The next-door neighbour of Becky's stepdad Nathan Matthews and his girlfriend Shauna Hoare said the couple were usually "very, very quiet" but described also hearing noises coming from their house the night before Becky, 16, died.

"There was shouting and screaming between Shauna and Nathan," Sarah Webb said.

"It was for more than half an hour. It was very unusual. They were very, very quiet people. We never heard bumps or banging or people on the stairs. We often thought that they weren't actually in."

The following afternoon, Mrs Webb said, she heard further noises from the property in Bristol.

"There was lots of running up and down the stairs very, very quickly, banging, slamming doors, scraping, furniture being moved, a suitcase being rolled across a wooden floor which was upstairs," she told the court.

"I remember thinking it was annoying because I wanted to put my little one down for a nap and with the banging she was finding it difficult to sleep.

"There was one voice at one point, a man's voice. He said one single word, I couldn't work out what it was.

"It sounded like the bed was being lifted across the floor, like something heavy was being dragged. It was unusual."

She described Hoare as "very withdrawn, she was very shy".

"She didn't want to make contact, she didn't want to make friends," she said.

"When I spoke to her she wouldn't reply, she would look away. I may be a little biased but I took these things to mean she may be in an abusive relationship."

Matthews, of Warmley, Glos, denies murder and conspiracy to kidnap.

He has pleaded guilty to perverting the course of justice, preventing burial of a corpse and possessing a prohibited weapon.

Hoare, of Bristol, denies murder, conspiracy to kidnap, perverting the course of justice, preventing burial of a corpse and possessing a prohibited weapon.

Donovan Demetrius, 29, of Redfield, Bristol, and James Ireland, 23, of Avonmouth, deny assisting an offender.

Karl Demetrius, 29, and his partner Jaydene Parsons, 23, both of Bristol, have pleaded guilty to assisting an offender after Becky's dismembered body was discovered in their shed. Both maintain they were unaware of what the packages actually contained.

Matthews admitted killing Becky but insists Hoare had nothing to do with it. He told police after his arrest that he put Becky's body into the boot of the Vauxhall without his girlfriend knowing.

They then drove home to Cotton Mill Lane, Bristol, and when Hoare had gone to bed he took the teenager's body into their house.

Over the coming days he dismembered the Becky's corpse with a circular power saw bought from B&Q and wrapped the remains up in plastic bags.

Prosecutors allege the pair embarked on a sexually motivated plan together to kidnap and murder Becky.

William Mousley QC told the jury: "You can be sure this was no accident when he killed her. This was not something that just went wrong.

"You can be sure Nathan Matthews is guilty of murder."

He referred to the "sheer implausibility of Hoare's version of events" and ridiculed the concept that she was ignorant of what was happening."

The trial continues.

'Friend called for her but she was already dead in car outside'

BECKY'S boyfriend went looking for her hours after she had been killed, the court was told.

The teenager had not been replying to Luke Oberhansli's text messages so, on the afternoon of her death, he went to her home in St George.

Mr Oberhansli, now 18, said he knocked on the front door and Shauna Hoare – who is accused of murdering Becky – answered.

He said he spoke to Hoare and she spoke to Becky's stepmother, Anjie Galsworthy, and both women went to check Becky's bedroom, leaving Mr Oberhansli waiting on the doorstep, Bristol Crown Court heard.

Prosecutors allege that by this time Becky was already dead and in the Vauxhall Zafira parked outside the house.

In a written statement, Mr Oberhansli told the court: "I am not aware that Becky had any problems or anxieties about anything. On a day-to-day basis she always seemed happy. She wasn't moody.

"I last saw her on Tuesday February 17. I went around to her house after college. I went up to her room and played on the Xbox. She was playing a game on my iPad. She seemed normal.

"We were texting all day on Wednesday February 18. We continued texting the following day and everything seemed fine. The last text I sent was at 11.21am."

He told the court he'd not had a reply by 3pm, which was unusual, so he went to her house.

"Anjie, Becky's stepmum, said she'd let Becky know I had knocked when she was home."

SCENE: Where Becky was found

How could 'killer' not know?

IT is a "ridiculous concept" that Shauna Hoare was in "blissful ignorance" of what her boyfriend had done, a court has heard.

Nathan Matthews, 28, admits he killed Becky but denies hatching a plot with 21-year-old Hoare to murder the teenager.

He insists that his girlfriend "was nothing to do with it" when Becky died at her home on February 19 this year, Bristol Crown Court heard.

But prosecutor William Mousley QC told the jury: "The prosecution submit that before Becky Watts was killed, there was a plan between Nathan Matthews and Shauna Hoare to kidnap her, and when she was killed Shauna Hoare was actively involved in that killing, it being following on from the plan they had in which she had the necessary foresight to realise that serious injury would be caused to Becky Watts.

"In respect of what happened in the house on February 19, the prosecution only have the account of the two adults in the house at the time and they are both defendants.

"The prosecution say that what they were doing on that day and before that day strongly indicate two people working together.The prosecution says she (Hoare) was jointly responsible."

Booze and drugs binge students have more nookie

STUDENTS are more likely to have sex on days they've binged on alcohol or used drugs, new research shows.

Boffins also found binge drinking and being in a relationship were linked with less condom use.

The Journal of Studies on Alcohol and Drugs study took 284 students to report on their alcohol and marijuana use, sexual activity, and condom use every day for 24 consecutive days.

David Kerr, professor of psychological science at Oregon State University in the US, said: "Students in serious relationships had almost 90 per cent of the sex reported in our study, but serious partners used a condom only a third of the time – compared to about half the time among single students. More frequent sex, plus less protection equals higher risk."

That's a fanny looking pizza at Morrisons!

A MORRISONS worker has given a new meaning to the phrase 'food porn' after designing a Rugby World Cup-themed pizza which has been compared to a VAGINA.

The hilarious mishap occurred in the Chorlton, Manchester, branch of the supermarket chain when an artistic employee tried to place the pepperoni topping into the shape of a rugby ball.

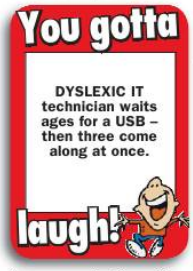
But shopper Laura Edwards spotted the £3 14-inch pizza and posted an image to Facebook.

She said: "After a few glances I had a little giggle to myself, because there's no doubt it looks like a crude image of a lady's privates.

"I know they were trying to get behind the Rugby World Cup, but it hasn't turned out well at all.

"I felt like a bit of a weirdo taking a photo of a vagina pizza, but I knew it would give people a laugh if I put it on the internet.

"Even the deli girls were having a chuckle."



Cops nab fan for lobbing sex toy

A FOOTBALL fan was arrested after throwing a DILDO onto the pitch during a match.

The goalkeeper had to pick up the large rubber cock and remove it from the field of play.

A supporter lobbed it at his goal during the "pulsating derby" between Tranmere Rovers and Wrexham.

He was later seized by police for chucking the sex toy which "could have taken someone's eye out".

Fan Craig Colville said: "At first I thought it was a carrot and thought 'what sort of football fan would take a carrot to a game?'

"When I realised what it was, I thought crikey – that could have taken someone's eye out."

Police confirmed they had arrested an away fan after the match at the Racecourse Ground in Wrexham, North Wales.

Khloe works her ass off!

CURVY Khloe Kardashian shows off her epic ass in a series of saucy workout snaps.

The reality babe, 31, treated fans to eye-popping pictures of a holiday exercise session during a recent trip to the Caribbean.

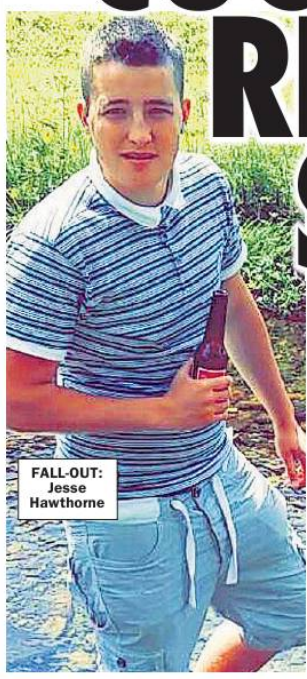
The raunchy snaps were appropriately captioned: "All about that bass, get acquainted with my St Bart's booty!"

The transformed fitness junkie showed off her famous curves in the barely-there one-piece, and posed in a number of revealing positions for the camera.

She said: "There's no such thing as a vacation from fitness, so I made sure to schedule in a workout during my St Bart's getaway last month."

The Keeping Up With The Kardashians star showed she's just as confident to flash the flesh as her elder sisters Kim, 34 and Kourtney, 36, who have both also posed naked in recent smouldering nude shoots.

'CUCUMBER DILDO' REVENGE OF SEX SWAP STUDENT



FALL-OUT: Jesse Hawthorne

Intimate snap put on Facebook

A SEX-SWAP student put revenge porn pics of his former lover on Facebook – including one of her holding a CUCUMBER as a dildo.

By REX ROWLANDS
rex@sundaysport.co.uk

Jesse Hawthorne, 23, posted two intimate snaps of his ex-girlfriend on social media after she dumped him when he had a sex change.

Hawthorne – who was born Jessica – was in a lesbian relationship with his victim for two-and-a-half years before deciding become a man.

But after the break-up Hawthorne, who now identifies as male, put the saucy snaps of his former lover on Facebook.

A court heard how in one of the photographs the victim was seen wearing a tight top and pants and was holding a thick cucumber.

Prosecutor Jamie Dewar described how the victim was seen pointing the vegetable to her private parts in a "sexually suggestive way".

In Hawthorne's second upload he showed all his Facebook friends a skin selfie of his ex-lover's intimate area, with the caption 'fking slut'.

District Judge Smith-Jones told the court: "This was a very serious matter. It was more than just payback, it was revenge.

"You carried this out without regard to the thoughts and the feelings of the victim."

The prosecutor told Newport Magistrates: "He did it out of anger. The victim said she had sent the extremely intimate images to Jesse while they were in a relationship together.

"She felt distressed, alarmed, humiliated, and embarrassed by what she and all her Facebook friends saw."

Hawthorne fell out with his ex-girlfriend who did not want him to have a sex change. His defence told the court: "She didn't wish Jesse to have gender reassignment so the relationship ended.

"Things got quite nasty between the parties. Over social media the victim and her friends called him a 'fking freak' a 'fking Frankenstein', and what was most hurtful due to Jesse's gender reassignment treatment, a 'dyke on roids'."

Hawthorne was handed a 16-weeks prison sentence suspended for a year and must do 150 hours of unpaid work.

The offence of revenge porn became illegal earlier this year.

Ireland funeral for Carrey's tragic lover

THE funeral of Jim Carrey's ex-girlfriend is to be held in Ireland at the weekend.

Make-up artist Cathriona White was found dead in a house in Sherman Oaks, California, on September 28.

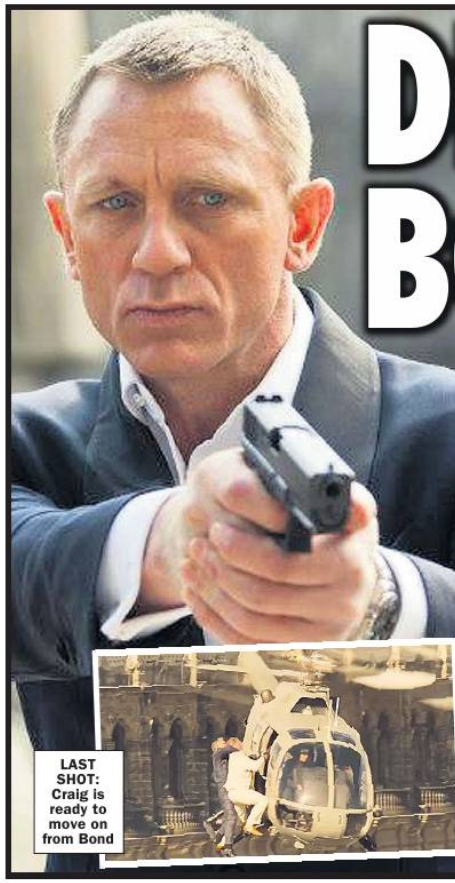
Hollywood star Carrey described her death as like being "hit with a lightning bolt".

Ms White, 30, from Cappawhite in Co Tipperary, moved to LA in 2009 and took roles as an extra on a TV show before working behind the scenes.

Carrey, 53, dated her for a while in 2012 and they were pictured hand in hand in New York earlier this year.

Ms White's funeral Mass will take place on Saturday in Cappawhite, followed by burial next to her father Pat in the village cemetery.

Her death is being treated as suicide. The Los Angeles County Coroner's Office leads the investigation.



DIE ANOTHER BOND!

I'd rather slash my wrists than carry on as 007, says Daniel Craig

LAST SHOT: Craig is ready to move on from Bond

DANIEL Craig has shocked 007 fans by stating he would rather SLASH HIS WRISTS than do another James Bond film.

The star, who will play the British spy for the fourth – and last – time in the forthcoming Spectre movie, insists he wants to "move on" from the franchise.

And he told Time Out magazine if he did another 007 film it would "only be for the money".

When asked whether he could imagine doing another Bond movie, he said: "Now? I'd rather break this glass and slash my wrists.

"No, not at the moment. Not at all. That's fine. I'm over it at the moment. We're done.

"All I want to do is move on."

The Chester-born star, 47, added he had not given "any thought" to what he would do next.

Embrace

He said: "For at least a year or two, I just don't want to think about it.

"I don't know what the next step is, I've no idea.

"Not because I'm trying to be cagey. Who the fk knows? At the moment, we've done it.

"I'm not in discussion with anybody about anything.

"If I did another Bond movie, it would only be for the money."

As for his potential successor, Craig said his advice would be simply to "embrace it".

"Don't be shit. You've got to step up. People do not make movies like this any more. This is really rare now. So don't be shit," he added.

Spectre reunites Craig with director Sam Mendes after 2012 smash hit Skyfall became the highest-grossing Bond film in history.

Naomie Harris, Ralph Fiennes, Ben Whishaw and Rory Kinnear return for Spectre – alongside newcomers to the franchise Christoph Waltz, Andrew Scott, Dave Bautista and Bond girls Lea Seydoux, Monica Bellucci and Stephanie Sigman.

Spectre opens in cinemas on October 26.

CYBER PERV SPIED ON PEOPLE AS THEY HAD SEX

SNEAKY: Stefan Rigo

Victims had no idea he was watching

A HACKER used a notorious piece of malware called BlackShades to spy on people performing sex acts via their webcams.

Investigators from the National Crime Agency found images on the computer of Stefan Rigo, 33, including ones of people involved in sexual activity, some of whom were on Skype at the time.

Rigo was arrested in November last year during an international probe. He has been given a 40-week suspended sentence and placed on the sex offenders' register for seven years.

Rigo targeted a variety of victims after gaining remote access to their computers' webcams.

Incriminating images on his computer were discovered after a forensic examination.

Out of 14 confirmed individuals he spied on, roughly half were people that he knew personally, an NCA spokesman said.

Investigators found and arrested Rigo after raiding two addresses in Leeds.

The hacker had used his former girlfriend's details to purchase BlackShades, a remote access trojan (RAT) which allows for a high level of surreptitious control over a victim's computer.

The NCA spokesman said: "The problem with RATs specifically is a lot of the time people don't know they're being affected.

"In the case of Stefan Rigo that we were looking at, his victims weren't aware."

Vulnerable

BlackShades has been around since 2010 and has been sold for as little as £26, explained Jens Monrad of cyber security firm FireEye.

Mr Monrad said: "The application in itself is not that difficult to detect, however the attackers will typically the attackers will wrap some sort of other exploit around the application.

"Even with patches the victim will still be vulnerable so long as there is a hole in the operating system."

He recommended that computer users be careful of clicking on suspicious links or downloading dubious email attachments.

WWI Brit is laid to rest

A DECORATED British soldier killed in action in the First World War has finally been laid to rest with full military honours almost 100 years after he died.

Sgt David Harkness Blakey, of the Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers, was killed aged 26 on the first day of the Battle of the Somme on July 1, 1916.

His remains were found in November 2013 in Thiepval, northern France.

He was identified by a home-made metal identity tag believed to have been created by his wife.

Gateshead-born Sgt Blakey's burial was attended by three generations of his family, who were joined at Thiepval's Connaught Cemetery by army brass.

KITTY LEA

By WENDY THOMAS
news@sundaysport.co.uk

KINKY Kitty Lea clearly loves a bit wood– as she gets raunchy on the living room floor.

The 26-year-old model revealed she doesn't need a man to get down and dirty.

And after a hard day working up a sweat in front of the lens, she often strips off as soon as she's through the door for a little one-on-one action.

Nipples

Here she is fondling her pert 30DDs in a pair of lacy blue panties.

The Lincolnshire stunna said: "The feeling of a solid bit of timber between my legs really gets me going.

"My nipples get hard and I start to think really naughty thoughts.

"There's nothing better than a cheeky night in on my own – I'm certainly never bored!"

Skype wk lads snared by woman

A 'SEXY woman' who has blackmailed at least 20 men by getting them to strip naked on Skype is being hunted by cops.

The victims – mostly university students – have been conned out of around £500 a time.

The woman encourages her victims to contact her on social networking sites, including Twitter and Facebook, and gets them to set up a face-to-face chat on Skype.

Described as being 'young and attractive' by cops, she then gets the men to strip off and fondle themselves on camera before contacting them again, claiming to have filmed them masturbating and tells them that unless they pay her £500 she will release the video on social media and sent it to all the victim's friends on Facebook.

Many victims, mostly fromt the University of Hertfordshire in Hatfied, paid up, but a number called police.

A spokesman for Herts Police said: "I would urge anyone faced with a similar approach, not to engage in such activity."

You gotta laugh!

I GOT covered in ketchup earlier today – from my head tomatoes.

Milk Tray man could be a lady

THE Milk Tray man is to return to TV after a 13-year absence – and this time, it could be a WOMAN.

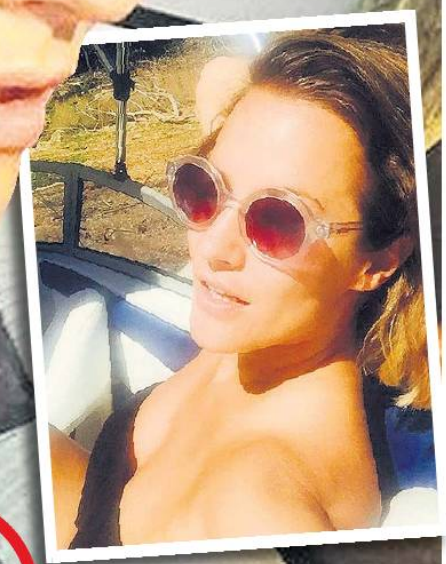
Cadbury has launched a search for a successor to the polo neck-wearing 80s hero, famous for his daring escapades to deliver a box of chocs to the lady he loves.

In the latest ad, to be screened tonight, one of the original Milk Tray men, James Coombes, glances over photos of previous antics before calling for "a new hero to deliver the famous box".

The campaign, first used in 1968, will continue to feature the original slogan "And all because the lady loves Milk Tray", but the new recruit can be a man or a woman.

Applicants can register their interest at www.newmilktrayman.com.

X FACTOR CAROLINE: MY BOOBS ARE TOO FLACK-IN' BIG!



PULLED: Star took nip slip pic off the net pretty sharpish

BUSTY Caroline Flack has something to get off her chest – she says she wants her massive boobs made SMALLER.

By SAM WALKER
samw@sundaysport.co.uk

The stunning X Factor presenter has sensationally admitted she's unhappy with the size of her bra-fillers.

But no matter how much she works up a sweat they keep getting BIGGER.

And male fans will be disappointed to learn the 35-year-old telly star hopes to shrink her assets.

The revelation comes after the sexy talent show host accidentally posted a saucy nip slip selfie on Instagram.

She said: "I'd rather have smaller boobs – all the Flack girls have big boobs. "Most people's ears keep growing. For me it's my BOOBS.

I'm not a fan of them."

Norfolk-born Caroline set tongues wagging when she posted the steamy picture online.

But after realising her mistake, she quickly deleted the image and replaced it with a censored version.

The brunette added: "If I was going to get dressed up and show a bit of flesh, I'd rather show my legs.

Curvy

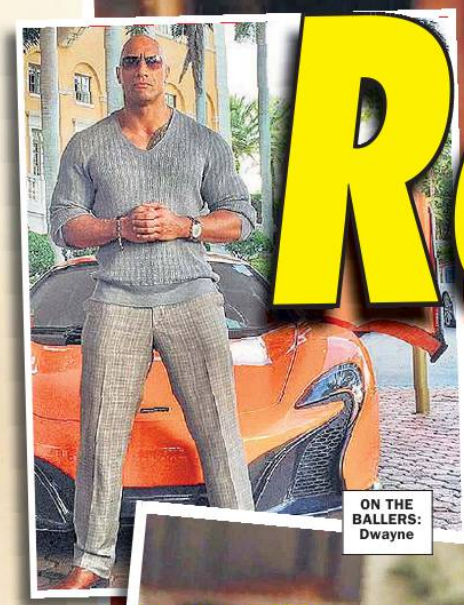
"I'm kind of odd-shaped – I have slim legs, quite a big middle and big boobs."

Curvy Caroline is co-hosting the hit ITV show alongside newly-single chart-topper Olly Murs.

This week she denied rumours of a steamy romance between the pair following speculation from fans.

MOVIE TOUGH GUY'S NEW TV

Rock



ON THE BALLERS: Dwayne

HOLLYWOOD A-lister Dwayne Johnson clearly has his hands full in new sports series Ballers – as these busty beauties get their tackle out.

By SAM WALKER
samw@sundaysport.co.uk

The hit U.S. show, starring the former WWF wrestler, centres on a group of celebrity American football players, their families, handlers and gorgeous girlfriends.

CHRISTINE BENTLY

JAZMYN SIMON

JOY CORRIGAN

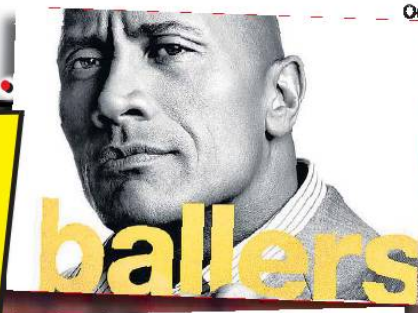
chicks!



And judging by these steamy scenes, there's a lot of fumbling action to see – on and off the pitch.

Grips

Dwayne, who shot to fame as ring smasher The Rock, plays retired Yank footie star Spencer Strasmore struggling to get to grips with life after the sport.

The 43-year-old's character may feel out in the cold after leaving the game but sexational actresses Joy Corrigan, Christine Bently, Jazmyn Simon, Michele Vargas, Zashia Monique Santiago and Taylor Rhodenbaugh definitely help heat things up.

A move source said: "The girls in the show seem to love contact sports and are clearly expert ball handlers. Who wouldn't want to grapple with them?"

Ballers is on Sky Atlantic tonight at 11.30pm

Axe killer cut out mum's heart and masturbated

A SON who brutally murdered his mother with a tomahawk before cutting out her heart and masturbating over the corpse told police killing her felt 'good'.

Retired high school teacher Nailah Pettigen, 64, was found dead at the apartment she shared with her son after her ex-husband became concerned he could not reach her and alerted the authorities.

Her son, Omar, was arrested a few days later and has been charged with murder and the desecration of a corpse.

The 31-year-old told detectives he had attacked his mother with a hammer and an axe, before he took a revolver out of the closet and shot her in the back multiple times.

He then cut open her chest and took out her heart.

The killer admitted he later masturbated because 'he needed to be with himself and needed a release after the event'.

Pettigen went out for a few beers with a friend after the killing.

TEACHER JAILED FOR SEX WITH GIRL PUPIL, 16

OBSESSED: Gareth Clements

A MARRIED school teaching assistant has been jailed for having sex with a 16-year-old girl pupil.

Gareth Clements bought the girl jewellery and told her he loved her.

The obsessed 41-year-old even hid behind a car to see her after police in Cornwall had warned him to stay away.

The former Saltash Community School teaching assistant was jailed for a year after he admitted sexual activity with a child by a person in a position of trust.

By ROSS THORNTON

Begged

Truro Crown Court heard he fell in love with the teenager because she was the only person to understand him after his mother died.

He continued to pursue the girl and begged her not to leave him even after the police became involved.

Prosecutor Jo Martin said Clements and the girl became close when she was under the age of 16. She said: "He started to feel that the only person to understand him was her.

"He explained he was attracted to her and on her 16th birthday he gave her a necklace and a silver pin."

The court heard the relationship became sexual and the school found out about the affair.

The girl was spoken to by police, but she did not make a complaint initially.

Police spoke to Clements, of Saltash, but he still tried to contact the girl – and was found hiding behind a parked car near her home on one occasion.

He also wrote love letters to her calling her his 'gorgeous wifey-wo'.

When the girl tried to end the romance, Clements 'tried hard' to get her to continue it.

She finally went to police concerned about her safety and his obsessive behaviour.

GORGEOUS Jasmin Walia could barely contain herself as she poured her ample assets into a skimpy blue bikini.

The former TOWIE babe fled the cold British weather and jetted off for a romantic getaway with her model boyfriend Ross Worswick.

The 25-year-old, who now stars in Sky1 reality series Desi Rascals, flaunted her jaw-dropping figure in the tiny two-piece bikini as she soaked up the rays on the beach.

One onlooker said: "Jesus Christ! What I could not do with that!"

Irish accent link to mystery dead kayaker

THE identity of a kayaker found dead on a beach almost a month ago remains a mystery.

Hampshire Police have issued an e-fit of the man, aged in his 20s or 30s, whose body was found in an inflatable kayak on Sandown's Yaverland Beach on the Isle of Wight on September 11.

The man was last seen at Brighton Canoes, in Newhaven, East Sussex, at around 4pm on September 8, where he was described as white and having an Irish accent.

A police spokesman said: "We are no closer to identifying the man and need the public's help.

"We do not know where the man lived, or where he was originally from.

"The death is being treated as unexplained and inquiries are ongoing to try to establish the circumstances."

AMY SLAPS SEX BAN ON LOVE CHEAT FELLA

NOOKIE NO-GO: Amy won't let Brad near her

BUSTY reality babe Amy Childs has revealed her fella isn't getting any NOOKIE after the pair were rocked by cheating allegations.

The former TOWIE star said sex is off the menu for Bradley Wright since it came out that he had been messaging other women behind her back.

Amy, 25, is giving 25-year-old Bradley the cold shoulder – and has even kicked the groundworker out of her Essex home.

The boutique owner was left devastated after she discovered that her boyfriend of one year had been sending explicit messages and snaps to another woman.

She snapped: "When he comes round I don't even want to look at him or be near him, the way I feel at the moment.

By JESS GALLEY
jess@sundaysport.co.uk

Stressed

"I won't even let him hug or kiss me. I'm being very cold at the minute.

"We love each other, but I can't have him around right now.

"I feel stressed and he has made me feel bad about myself. I've moved him out the house and chucked all his stuff out."

The woman Bradley had been swapping dirty texts with spilled the beans in a national newspaper.

Brad insisted the messages were just 'a laugh' and he didn't cheat on Amy or meet up with 36-year-old Marie Asemota.

Angry Amy said she still plans on starting a family with Bradley.

She added: "He said it was just lads' banter, but he can't be doing stuff like that.

"Sometimes I wake up and remember he hasn't actually done anything with this woman. But he has just been so stupid.

"He isn't going to get away with it. He has to make it up to me."

Dame Helen 'shit scared of journos'

DAME Helen Mirren has revealed she is "scared to st" of celebrity journalists, despite playing one in her new film.

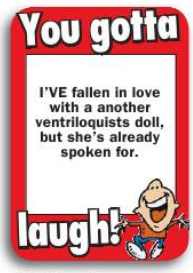
The 70-year-old actress, who portrays gossip columnist Hedda Hopper in Trumbo, said meeting her real-life alter-ego in person would have terrified her.

Ahead of the film's European premiere at the BFI London Film Festival, Helen (above) said: "She would have scared the st out of me. Actually, a lot of journalists scare the st out of me. I have never been a big fan of celebrity journalism. I find it kind of boring."

Dame Helen, who has made headlines with her bikini body and youthful looks, said online comments particularly are "nerve-wracking".

She added: "In our business, we have to be open to the press. It is an essential part of the job. But at the same time, (I feel like) I'm about to fall off the wire into the pit of snarling snakes."

Trumbo opens in the UK on February 5, 2016.



John Lewis launch Xmas

CHRISTMAS has hit the high street, just over two-and-a-half months ahead of the festive big day.

John Lewis has unveiled its seasonal decor at its flagship Oxford Street branch, decking out the atrium with baubles and twinkling lights.

This year's theme is entitled "A different perspective" and features triangular red and green Christmas trees suspended amidst large mirrored balls.

The decorations were installed by two workers suspended on abseiling lines and took four nights to complete.

Meanwhile, shoppers at the store's Cardiff branch are greeted by a tinsel filled winter wonderland with staff wearing Christmas jumpers and the strains of Michael Bublé over loudspeakers.

Scout of this world!

SAUCY Scout Willis makes a show of herself – after going BRALESS on a night out.

The 24-year-old revealed her nipples as she made her way to a party celebrating the naming of pal Rihanna's new album Anti.

The blonde daughter of Hollywood A-lister Bruce Willis wore a see-through black dress to the event in Hollywood.

It's not the first time Scout has got her tits out in the street.

Last year she protested for the Free The Nipple Campaign by shopping TOPLESS in New York.

One onlooker said: "It was Rihanna who was supposed to be doing the unveiling, not Scout!"

Ola: I want you to see me NAKED!

By SAM WALKER
samw@sundaysport.co.uk

SEXY Strictly Come Dancing reject Ola Jordan says she loves to strip NAKED.

The blonde became the first dancer to leave the hit BBC show after being voted off alongside celebrity partner Iwan Thomas, 41, at the weekend.

But leaving the programme now means the 33-year-old is free to defy show rules – and take her clothes off!

The Polish-born model is about to release her new racy topless 2016 calendar, and she has promised fans they will NOT be disappointed.

She said: "My new calendar will be as sexy as my last one."

Ola has already shown off some of the sexy snaps – which include one of her wearing a skimpy red leotard and another covering her boobs with her arms.

And when she's not stripping, the blonde runs her own lingerie website with her husband James.

Lady Gaga: I love watching ME having sex

RACY Lady Gaga admitted she can't get enough of watching herself have SEX on screen.

The Born This Way hit maker said she loves to watch back her raunchy sex scenes – because they are more authentic and real than other scenes.

And the 29-year-old revealed she isn't scared to bare all for steamy love-making scenes, because it gives her the chance to be 'fearless'.

The 29-year-old said: "They don't scare me, those scenes. It's an opportunity to be fearless.

"In a strange way, I almost think I prefer to watch myself in a love scene.

"I know that I have to be completely honest in order to achieve something that looks authentic and feels real."

The quirky pop star made her TV acting debut this week in the fifth series of US show American Horror Story.

And she stripped to just nipple pasties and a thong in the first episode to take part in a blood-spattered orgy.

You gotta laugh!

MY mate was told by his doctor to do something that gets him out of the pub – so he took up smoking.

Amazon hiring 19,000 workers

AMAZON is to take on 19,000 workers in seasonal roles across the UK as retailers gear up for Christmas.

The figure is up from 13,000 last year and the 15,000 it took on in 2013 as the online retail giant expands operations.

The positions will be within Amazon's fulfilment and customer service, with the potential for permanent roles.

John Lewis also said it would be hiring 3,000 temporary staff across the retail and distribution arms of the business ahead of Christmas, while Debenhams is advertising for workers to cover the "exciting" period.

Argos is taking on 9,000 workers to cope with the Christmas rush, while Royal Mail has announced plans to recruit 19,000 workers from mid-November until early January.

Real-life Sex Lives

THIS WEEK: BUSINESSWOMAN WHO INTERNET SHOPS...FOR MEN

By CLAUDIA TANNER
news@sundaysport.co.uk

I pay men £3k a month to have sex with me... why not?

AMANDA Moore loves to be bought flowers and be wined and dined.

But when it comes to a 'conventional' relationship, the 30-year-old says she simply hasn't got the time.

So she 'orders' a man off the internet for one specific reason... to get her sexual needs met.

Amanda, who runs a cleaning company and rents out a few properties, reckons the lack of complication with a male escort is a real advantage for her.

And the entrepreneur says she spends up to £3,000 a month on escorts.

Here she tells Weekend Sport why she feels more women should consider paying for nookie...

"I KNOW lots of women have an expensive shoe habit but I'm not too fussed about what's on my feet to be honest.

My only vice is spending money on men!

Looking at escort sites on the internet is just like perusing a takeaway menu.

In fact it can be so hard to choose sometimes.

Nowadays we are all able to easily order exactly what we like – whether that's food, fashion, gifts... so why not do the same with sex?

People tend to associate men as the ones who pay for escorting services.

But I reckon more and more women are seeing the benefits, too.

I'm a busy woman and most days I work 14 hours. It's down to me to keep my businesses going and bring in the money.

If I have a boyfriend, I'd need to spend time with him – time I just don't have.

It would mean going on dates to restaurants, bars and trips to the cinema.

Inevitably as a relationship grows it demands more of your time – visits to the in-laws and downtime together in front of the telly for example.

So I choose to bypass all that and enjoy the pleasures of male escorts and nothing else.

Don't get me wrong, I love a date night, enjoying sparkling conversation and dinner and drinks in a top notch restaurant.

But I like the fact that, if I've no time for all that, I can go straight for the dessert, so to speak!

There are some escort companies that strictly provide companionship only.

But the ones I use offer the whole shebang.

We all have basic animalistic needs, so why shouldn't a woman be able to pay for sex, like men do?

If I didn't get my sexual needs met regularly – and I had to wait until I met a guy I fancied in a bar, which I don't have time to do – then I'm sure I would explode!

I'm quite highly sexed and my use of male escorts means that I can concentrate on my work and I'm less likely to snap at my staff.

It isn't a cheap habit to have. Escorts typically charge £500 for dinner and an overnight stay. And the client has to pay for any expenses, such as meals and drinks.

I meet with an escort at least once a week.

But it's so worth it. If I fancy a strong, rugged Latino type or a young, blue-eyed blonde hunk I can have whatever I like!

It is quite important to me that the escorts I spend time with are conversationalists.

Hot sex isn't just about physicality. It's also about mental stimulation and connection.

A definite advantage is that I avoid all the drama and complications of relationships. There's no fights and tears.

I don't have to deal with terrible in-laws, ex-wives, needy children or nag and moan at a man to pick up his pants off the floor.

And because I'm a paying customer, I feel totally comfortable in demanding exactly what I want in the bedroom!

A lot of the time I genuinely feel like there is some mutual attraction with the escorts and they enjoy the rumpy pumpy as much as me.

I know what some people may say...yes, but you don't have 'real' love. That's true. I'm sure over time I'll be looking for that.

And when it comes to menus of men, one day I will want to eat fine steak.

But for now I can fill myself up on as much quick, tasty fast food as I want!"

SUSIE

SUMMERS

By JACK MOTTERSHEAD
jack@sundaysport.co.uk

SAUCY Susie Summers says she loves to get WET – by shagging in the sea!

Opening up on her passion for public bonking, the 29-year-old admitted she once had rampant seaside sex in broad daylight while on holiday.

And Susie, who boasts massive 32FFs, reckons she felt even hornier knowing that loads of blokes were watching her.

She said: "I once had sex in the sea in Mexico, not even at night or anything – in the full daytime with people around.

"There were snorkelers around and they definitely caught an eyeful. But it was an even bigger turn-on knowing people could see us. It's that bit naughtier."

And when there isn't a lucky fella around, the Peterborough-born stunna revealed her love water goes deeper – saying she loves masturbating with showerheads!

Susie added: "When there's no-one around, I don't use toys, I always use the showerhead. It feels amazing and is guaranteed to make you orgasm every time.

"And the water cleans everything so it's like to birds with one stone!"

Teacher's sex with teen lads 'cover-up'

EDUCATION chiefs have been accused of a cover-up after a pretty teacher allegedly snogged and touched up three teen students – two of them in school.

Lawyers for one of the boys say bosses failed to report Melissa Lindgren (above) for sexual abuse.

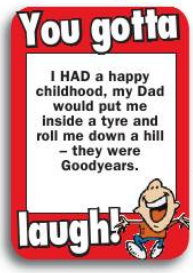
The lad said he started spending time with the Maths tutor when he was 13.

But officials at the school are said to have ignored repeated alerts about her "misconduct," including reports she was sleeping with a colleague.

They also reportedly turned a blind eye to her having "heated and emotional" conversations with students and holding "drugs and other inappropriate and illegal materials for students."

Lindgren, 29, has been charged with a string of offences, including lewd acts on a child under 14 and distributing porn to a minor.

She was arrested at Nicolas Junior High in Fullerton, California, where she taught.



Cocks in the road go to pot

A COUNCIL have come under fire for rubbing out dozens of huge KNOBS painted over potholes in the road, but failing to repair the damage.

Residents of the humorously-named Cock Lane could not stop giggling after the bright yellow willies appeared last month – hoping it would force the council to fix the road.

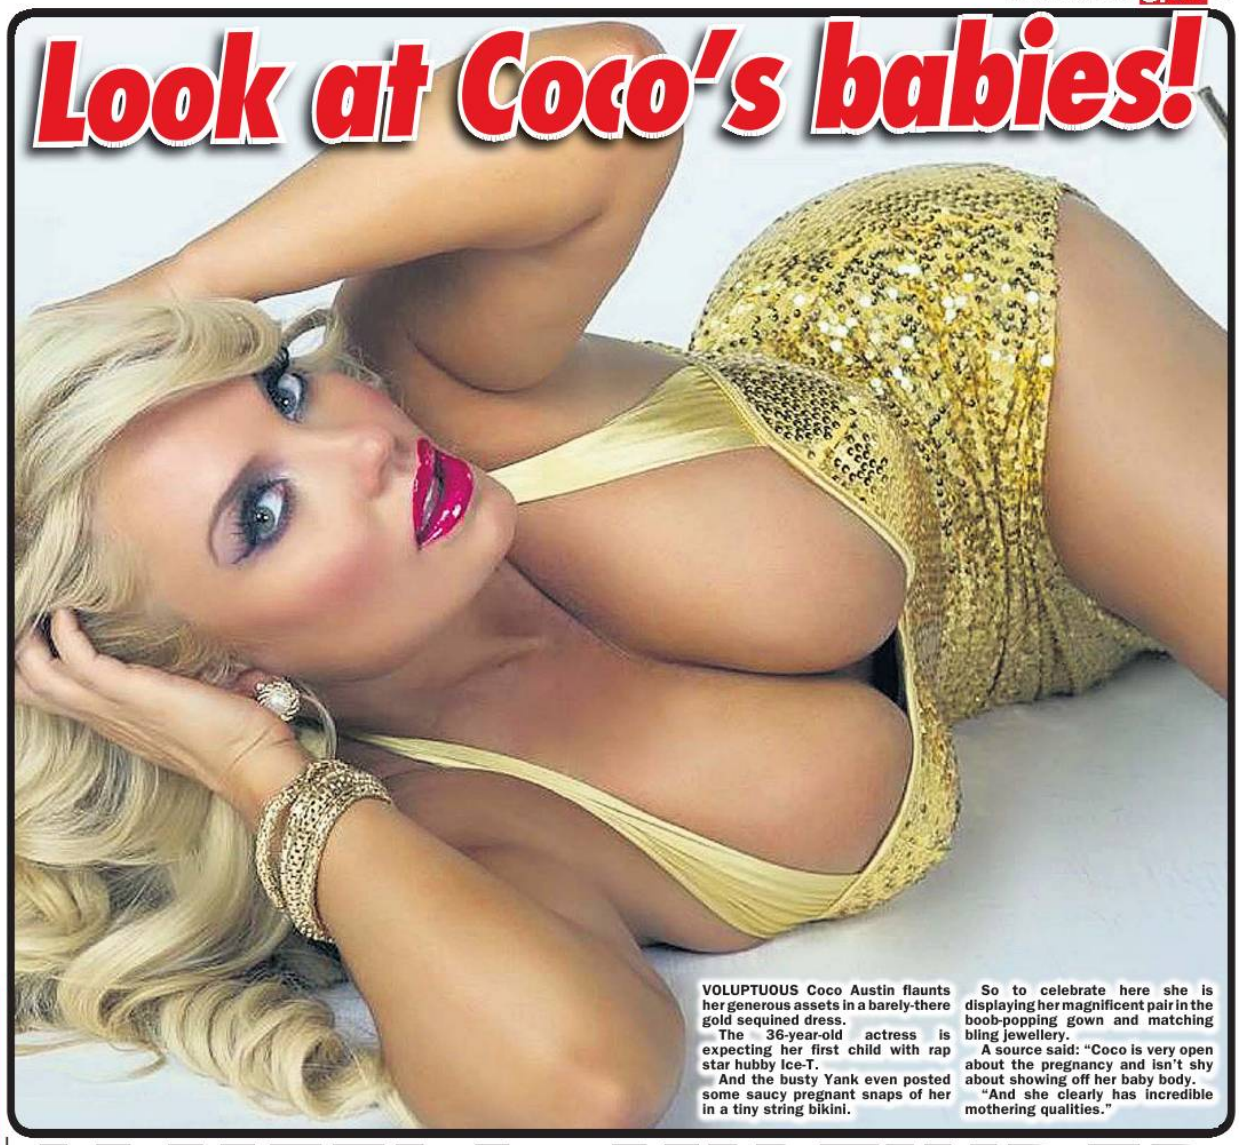
Their relief at seeing workmen inspecting the bright yellow members turned to anger after Surrey County Council simply painted over the cheeky markings.

Resident Christopher Patrick, 66, said: "They say that they are planning to improve the road, but it's an 'ongoing situation'.

"I've lived here for 30 years and occasionally get comments on the street name, especially when this happened.

"I thought it was very humorous."

Look at Coco's babies!



VOLUPTUOUS Coco Austin flaunts her generous assets in a barely-there gold sequined dress.

The 36-year-old actress is expecting her first child with rap star hubby Ice-T.

And the busty Yank even posted some saucy pregnant snaps of her in a tiny string bikini.

So to celebrate here she is displaying her magnificent pair in the boob-popping gown and matching bling jewellery.

A source said: "Coco is very open about the pregnancy and isn't shy about showing off her baby body.

"And she clearly has incredible mothering qualities."

JAMEELA: MY TINDER DATE'S STIFFY HELL!

TELLY babe Jameela Jamil has confessed she had one too many stiff ones on a night out – after her Tinder date overdosed on VIAGRA.

The 29-year-old presenter signed up to the mobile dating app after moving from her home in London to Los Angeles.

And she told how she met a new bloke for a drink and things began to get steamy.

But the former BBC Radio One DJ got a shock when her fella got a massive rod-on, and collapsed following an allergic reaction to a sex pill he'd secretly taken.

Stunning Jameela, from Hamstead, said instead of finishing the date between the sheets, she ended up in hospital with him and his inflated bell-end.

She said: "I had the worst Tinder date ever – one that ended in him lying on the floor with broken teeth and a split chin having had a seizure because he'd had a bad reaction to the Viagra he secretly took.

"There I was, in an ambulance with a man I barely knew, desperately needing to be held and reassured. In moments like that, doughnuts can only do so much to fill the void.

"When I packed my bags and moved to L.A., there was just one thing I forgot to take into account, the God-almighty loneliness.

"I'm talking about the 'Oh fk' realisation when you need someone to talk to and everyone you love is 11 hours away."

LINDSAY

STRUTT

By JACK MOTTERSHEAD
jack@sundaysport.co.uk

LUSTY Lindsay Strutt revealed she likes to put her heart and SOLE into kinky romp's by keeping her HIGH HEELS on.

The mega-busty babe, 27, says that dressing up before bonking is a sure way of getting exactly what she wants between the sheets.

She said: "I like to dress up. I especially love wearing heels in bed. It makes hot watching guys go crazy over them."

Amazing

Lindsay also revealed some tricks for keeping her 34GG funbags in such great shape – one involving a couple of cans of baked beans.

The Doncaster-born babe added: "I do all my housework while holding cans of beans in the air. My grandma told me it's the best way to stay in shape, and her boobs are amazing.

"If mine look anything like hers by that age, I'll be on top of the world!"

MOTORS WITH THE PURPLE HELMET

Diesel be a real bargain

IT'S official – the price of used Volkswagen diesel cars in Britain has dropped following their bombshell scandal, just as we predicted last week.

Bosses at the Kraut firm have been forced to admit using dodgy emissions-cheating software in over 11 million vehicles.

And now car valuation tracking guide Glass's' have said prices dropped two percent in a week around about the time VW announced that 1.2 million vehicles in Britain were affected by the software.

VW GOLF TDi 1.6
(2012, £9,000)

The good news for those who want to pick up a bargain – and plan to keep the car for a long time, thereby soaking-up the depreciation hit – is that VW's are still brilliantly-made and ultra reliable, even if the firm's been telling porkies.

A diesel 1.6S is a good bet, with a nice trade-off between fuel economy and pace, as it gets to 62mph in just 11 seconds.

It Astra be a Vauxhall

EASY on the eye, 140bhp to play with and loads of torque from the silky smooth 1.8 VVT engine – what's not to like?

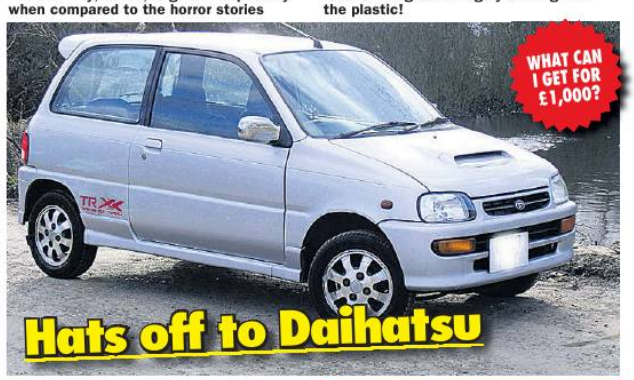
The 0-60mph sprint goes by in just 9.4 seconds and it's nice quiet motorway cruiser.

Fuel economy is, though, a bit crap – you'll be lucky to get 40 miles to the gallon while you'll enjoy even less if you happen to have a heavy right foot.

Reliability, so far, is good – especially when compared to the horror stories we've heard about the Fiat-built CDTI engines, which appear to made from Play-Doh.

Just watch out for the usual standard Vauxhall niggles. These include creaks, rattles and groans largely coming from the plastic!

VAUXHALL ASTRA 1.8 VVT SRi SPORT
(2011, £4,500)



Hats off to Daihatsu

JAPANESE brand Daihatsu have pulled out of the UK market when it comes to flogging their cars.

Which is a crying shame, as you no longer get quirky little oddballs like THIS!

The Cuore Avanzato is properly mental, coming with all-wheel drive married to a 700cc turbo engine.

DAIHATSU CUORE AVANZATO TR-XX 4X4
(1998, £800)

You are, then, piloting a 660kg go-cart that is more at home in the city than a knife-wielding drug dealer.

Meanwhile, the styling suggests it could compete with a Subaru Impreza (but it can't).

Turbo Thrux!

YOU greedy bastards, you're always after more.

For instance, later this year Triumph are going to be re-launching their famous Thruxton bike, a retro-modern beauty that first went on sale back in 2003.

The all-new versions looks set to have a bigger engine – 1200cc compared with the current 900c lump – as well as twin disk brakes up front and a chunky new tank.

But before you get excited, note this: there's absolutely sod all wrong with the current Thruxton.

In fact, we can't think of a single other classic-style bike we'd rather own.

Substance

When you buy a Bonneville, a Ducati Scrambler, or a Moto Guzzi V7, you're compromising actually practicality in favour of something you look quite nice on during your Sunday morning bimble to the nearest cafe.

It's style with a slightly diluted substance.

And yeah, the Thruxton has a bit of that about it – the parallel twin mill isn't quite as punchy as it should be and even with a nice two-into-one aftermarket exhaust system (which our test bike had, courtesy of Arrow) it still doesn't sound all that great.

But what surprises most is it's sheer usability. That small screen on the front – like a less-endowed bloke who knows exactly what to do with it – is surprisingly effective at diverting the windblast.

In fact, get tucked behind, thanks to drop handlebars and a sporty riding position, and it's arguably more comfortable than some touring bikes – certainly the Triumph Tiger we recently tried out for size.

Meanwhile, there really is something about the bike's geometry that really rewards a bit of spirited riding.

Narrow wheels and a short wheelbase make it absolutely drop into corners, allowing you to give it some beans as you make for the apex.

And it's deceptively quick, too, making blasts past ponderous cars something of a doddle.

While it looks like it couldn't possibly fit two arses on the seat, the Thruxton DOES take a pillion. You just undo two bolts at the back, whip off the plastic cover at the rear, and park the missus' bottom behind you as she rests her feet on the dedicated pegs.

Buy a Thruxton, and you're also joining a select band of owners that includes the likes of actors Bradley Cooper, Ryan Reynolds and Shia La-Beouf.

Will that fact help you to get your dick wet? Probably not. Though you will win knowing nods from fatherly men with beards as you pass by them in the street.

DRESSED TO IMPRESS!

LAST week almost 40,000 well-dressed gentlefolk in 410 cities from 79 countries straddled the saddles of their café racers, bobbers, scramblers and other marvellous custom motorcycles to raise awareness and help fund a cure for prostate cancer.

The Distinguished Gentleman's Ride, sponsored by Triumph, only launched last year.

Hipsters

And as the Purple Helmet rode with the hipsters and retro babes at Manchester's event, it's fair to say its popularity is growing – even if the car drivers being buzzed by hordes of bikers on the city's already congested roads probably weren't best chuffed about it!

There were some properly cool dudes, and even cooler motorcycles.

And being sat on a Thruxton (see review above) I felt completely at home!

GAMES

OFF THE CHART!

UNCHARTED: THE NATHAN DRAKE COLLECTION* (PS4) ★★★★

THIS series is up there as one of the best action adventure franchises in recent gaming history.

And Uncharted: The Nathan Drake Collection has combined all three of its classic games into one up-to-date bundle.

It's a perfect remaster that enhances not only the resolution, but also all of the other games' features as well.

The collection explores the series' dark past – giving a first-hand account of the progress made by developer Naughty Dog from the first Uncharted to the third.

As you might expect, they've given the old games a facelift so that they now they look much better in 1080p using the PS4's fullest capabilities.

Despite the first game being eight years old now, all the titles seem to have aged extremely well and are still an absolute blast to play, and the characters and missions are as memorable as ever.

The revamp also boasts a handful of new features such as the Explorer mode, which is a great way for newcomers to get to grips with the storyline.

Other exciting new challenges are the punishing Brutal difficulty setting and the Speed run which times you on certain sections of the game.

If the game were to be faulted in any small way, the lack of a multiplayer option will come as a bit of a blow for those hoping to get in on the action with friends online.

Despite this, these games have never looked or played better and whether you've enjoyed them before or not, the collection should definitely be in your library.

Uncharted: The Nathan Drake Collection is released exclusively for PlayStation 4 on October 9.

BOOKS With JON WISE

THE PRISONER'S GOLD* by Chris Kuzneski (Headline) ★★★★

THE treasure hunting team are gathered for a third adventure in Kuzneski's excellent latest.

Soldier and tech whizz Jack Cobb's gang are off East in search of Marco Polo's hidden gold. The legendary Italian merchant and traveller was a prisoner back in the 13th century, and it's his tale, written down by a fellow lag, whose notes have sparked the hunt.

Jack's team are handed this and must scour historical sites around the globe for the other documents which together can point the way to the hidden hoard.

The mixed bunch bring their various skills to bear to the business, trying to keep their heads down but still managing to get into trouble following the trail which leads all the way to China, where they wind up crossing swords with a malevolent secret order.

Join the Hunters on the journey, all-out thrills guaranteed!

ALONE WITH THE DEAD* by James Nally (Avon) ★★★

MESSED-UP PC Donal Lynch will grow on you as he himself grows through this twisty crimer.

It's the early 90s and the Irishman has been ostracised by his family back in the Emerald Isle for having become a London cop.

Drink, insomnia and a possibly unattainable dream to become a detective are other problems piling up for the naïve young rozzer.

So far, so classic police procedural material...but there's more.

Finding the body of a murdered woman brings Donal the chance to change his troubled life as he winds up part of the investigation team. He joins forces with hard-boiled tec DS Dan Shepard, who opens his eyes to the dark side of detective work.

With plenty of gore and twists galore, the exploration and unravelling of Donal's mind is what keeps the reader hooked as much as the plot.

DVD

MAD MAX: FURY ROAD* (15) ★★★★

A VICIOUS warlord marshalls all his gangs and ruthlessly pursues Mad Max-led rebels across a barren wasteland in this high-octane road war.

I watched this in Imax 3D when it first came out and if I had tits, trust me, they'd have been blown right off.

INANIMATE* (15) ★★★★

WHEN a ship dredges up a recently thawed piece of old Soviet space wreckage, it seems that the Russians had experimented with tiny animals able to withstand the extremes of space radiation.

Good old-fashioned thriller with plenty of below-the-surface nasties.

TOMORROWLAND: A WORLD BEYOND* (12) ★

AFTER teenager Casey Newton comes across a pin that transports her to an alternate world she seeks out inventor George Clooney, hoping he can shed some light on her find.

Arguably Clooney's worst movie since his appearance in Batman and Robin.

ALBUM

CARACAL* ★★★ by Disclosure

THIS electrifying release sees the trendy chartopping DJ duo return with a second studio album, featuring single Holding On as well as three bonus tracks which include their earlier single Bang That.

MOVIES

SPOOKY: Potter babe Emma Watson stars with Ethan Hawke (below)

CHILL FACTOR

CONFESSION – I have never read a word of or seen so much as a clip of a Harry Potter book or movie.

So I'm more than happy to declare an ever-lasting lust for actress Emma Watson, the all-grown-up actress and model.

The elfin-faced beauty doesn't grace the covers of magazines and help flog Burberry togs across the globe for nothing.

Fact is she's GORGEOUS.

But in Regression, wow – she's really bloody creepy, too!

The 25-year-old former child star of the Hogwarts flicks gives us the chills in this goose-bumping tale set in American's suburban mid-west.

REGRESSION
15 ★★★★

Regression also stars Oscar-nominated Hollywood star Ethan Hawke as Bruce Kenner, a cop investigating a man who admits abusing his daughter Angela (Watson) – even though he has no memory of it.

Horror

Dad and daughter are then persuaded to try to remember what actually happened with regression therapy – which is where it goes from being dark to pitch black.

And as Angela's memories start to surface everything gets creepier and creepier.

Like this: "I heard a knock at the door, it was an old woman. She had this weird smile on her face. She took me downstairs. They were wearing robes. There was a black mask."

Asked to expand further, terrified Angela cries out: "They'll kill me! They'll kill you, too!"

The film is the latest spine-tingling horror from Spanish director Alejandro Amenabar, who has a strong track record with the old spooky stuff.

Spooky

He had a massive international hit in 2002 with the Nicole Kidman film The Others, which pulled in more than £144 million at the global box office.

And this should be a belter, too, if not only because of delightful Emma Watson's legions of fans across the planet.

They won't see any kids riding around on broomsticks, mind.

But that doesn't mean there aren't any witches...

BREAST SCENES IN MOVIE HISTORY

THE year is 1987. Iraq is dropping mustard gas on Iran, US President Ronald Reagan is having a prostate gland operation, and 16 people are shot dead here in the UK in the Hungerford massacre.

If that feels like a zillion years ago, consider this too – in 1987 it's still seven years before Four Weddings and a Funeral came along, which turned Hugh Grant's arm candy Elizabeth Hurley into an international pin-up thanks to a cleavage-enhancing dress barely held together by pins.

Aged just 22, Liz made her first topless appearance in Rowing With The Wind, in which her sizeable norks are seen in all their glory.

Sadly, the bloke getting to grips with them is her then real-life fella Grant.

RIO? GRAND!

HERE'S your chance put the horror of the World Cup behind you in favour of some real Rio talent!

Suck Like A Brazillian may sound like the college course you wish your other half would sign up for but this amazing DVD is a celebration of the art of the BJ as performed by dusky South American lovelies.

It's from the house of Private so you know the girls, the studs and the production values are going to be tip-top but it's the technique on show here that sets it apart.

These girls, led by the stunning Sandy Rio, could get wood from a dead man.

It's generally thought that football is the national sport in Brazil but after sitting through almost three hours of this stunning collection I'm going to suggest that they could also take of the the world at c sucking!

We'd love to show you grabs but can't find any without a happy penis front and centre!

Welcome to the world famous Sport Agony page! No other newspaper's Agony Aunts can offer the level of advice or experience than our own Agony Angels! This week Kyla has been reading your letters. Here's her advice, folks...

A

Dear Kyla,

MY current girlfriend works stacking shelves at my supermarket, which is where I met her, and I'm glad I did because she's as dirty as a dog's arse.

I'm 21 and she's just turned 19. We met when I nipped in to her store to pick up some beers a couple of weeks ago.

We had our first shag within hours locked in a cubicle in the loos, it was that quick an attraction.

Sometimes, if I have a few hours spare and fancy a legover I go and see her a work.

She loves sucking my "lolly" and especially likes doing it in the car park in daylight.

Now she wants to spice things up even more by giving me a gobble in a supermarket aisle on a Saturday afternoon.

What do you reckon, should we go for it?

PB, Derbyshire

Kyla says...

SURE, if you want to wind up in court.

Dear Kyla,

ME and my wife have been married for 20 years and naturally don't shag much these days.

One night last week I went out on the piss with my best mate and went back to my place with a takeaway.

The wife was still up and surprisingly was wearing a sexy nightdress. For the first time in ages she looked really good so I started kissing her massive tits. To be honest, I was so turned-on and pissed that I forgot my best mate was there.

I led my wife to the couch and started pumping her doggy-style. She really seemed to enjoy getting shagged in front of my pal. Then she told him to get his cock in her mouth and she started sucking it.

We then went upstairs and me and my mate took it in turns to give her one.

The next day my wife said she'd like to do it all again with me and my pal said I could shag his missus if I wanted to. Since then we've actually had a few fantastic foursomes. How good is that?

HL, Cumbria

Kyla says...

SOUNDS like she's been boning up on stale relationships.

Dear Kyla,

I GREW up in a bad neighbourhood and I got into all sorts of trouble as a kid. My son is 15 and I fear he is headed the same way.

He is in with a bad crowd, smokes and drinks a lot. He is abusive when he comes home.

It was made even worse last week when the parents of a girl from his class called and told me my son has got their daughter pregnant.

She is 13. My life is in ruins, as is his. How can I make him see sense?

Liz, North London

Kyla says...

YOU, your son, the girl and her parents need to sit down and figure out what to do before you worry about the future. "Ruined" lives have been turned around before.

Dear Kyla,

MY boyfriend has recently grown a bushy hipster beard and although he looks like a tramp, it is pure heaven when he goes down on me.

I love the feeling of his bristles on my inner thighs and I can't get enough of his tongue on my clit. But he's still a pulic embarrassment. What should I do?

SJ, Cardiff

Kyla says...

EASY, just keep him indoors!

Should I have sex with lesbian pal?

Dear Kyla,

I HAVE always wanted to get into the porn industry and have just been given the lead in a new movie made by one of the world's best producers.

My long-term girlfriend has known about my dream since we got together and was fine about it, but now she is telling me if I go to America to do this film then we are finished.

I'd only be gone for a month at the most, and everyone knows that these films are made very safely and everyone is checked out first.

I am not doing it to sleep with other women, it's just something I've always wanted to do. How can I make her understand?

DT, Worcester

Kyla says...:

I THINK she accepted your dream because she thought it would never happen. It isn't something that happens very often, let's be honest. And now it has happened she is jealous an doesn't know what to do. Try sitting down and rationally explaining that this is an acting job and it's something you've always wanted to do and see what she says. Otherwise you will have to make a decision over what is more important – her or your porn career.

Dear Kyla,

Letter of the day

MY best friend since I was a kid has just come out as being a lesbian – and I couldn't be more confused about it.

First of all I thought 'Well, that's the end of our going out pulling lads at the weekends', something we had been doing for years and were pretty good at.

Then it occurred to me that maybe it wasn't such a bad thing after all.

You see, she is a very pretty girl, and we have had threesomes together in the past, putting on a show for lucky fellas we'd taken home.

So I was wondering if I shouldn't make a move on her. It never entered my mind that I might be bisexual because I really love cock, quite frankly.

But I noticed that when we had threesomes in the past she was always more into me than the guy, and now I understand why.

And the idea of her devoting all her attention solely on my intimate parts has me feeling a thrill down there, and even a bit of a desire to show her what I can do with my tongue for her, too. After all, she is my best friend, so it's only natural, surely.

What do you think. Shall I make a move?

Jo, Sussex

Kyla says...

WHY not, but take things slowly.

Dear Kyla,

I ENJOY a few weird sex traits now and then and the latest one is to pleasure myself when I am driving down the motorway.

It's a thrill to think I am naked from the waist down and no-one else knows about it.

Trouble is, I got caught speeding last week and when I was pulled over the policeman saw me without clothes on, so I also got cautioned for indecency.

This has only made it more thrilling for me, though and I can't wait till the weekend when I can go and do it again. Do you think this is wise, or do you think I'll end up with a criminal record?

Leanne B, Berkshire

Kyla says...

IF you like pleasuring yourself in public so much, why not try a sex party? That's what they're for, after all.

Cleaner saw our dirty sex!

Dear Kyla,

MY office cleaner caught me red-handed having sex with my personal assistant on top of my desk last week – and now I am being blackmailed!

I've been sleeping with my PA for a few months now and we do it as often as we can. The sex is fantastic and she's very adventurous – a lot more so than my wife, who knows nothing about our affair.

Back home we don't have a sex life anymore. She's more interested in putting the kids to bed at night, than putting ME to bed at night. The best I can do is have a quick tug over a porn vid when she's gone to bed at about 10 o'clock.

Meanwhile my PA and I are both just getting what we need out of our illicit relationship – no-holds-barred, satisfying, dirty sex.

That was until the cleaner caught us.

Now my cleaner is threatening to tell my wife unless I either pay her off with an impossible amount of cash.

I tried to reason and plead with her and she surprised my by saying she might forget about grassing me up... if I had sex with her. Apparently she's not get any at home, either.

She's no looker but her body doesn't seem too bad, so maybe I should?

Steve, Birmingham

Kyla says...

LIVE REVIEW: NORTHLANE

Northlane @ Manchester Club Academy ★★★★★

MANCHESTER's Club Academy was full to capacity for Aussie metallers Northlane on Wednesday.

It was another sell-out date on what has been a hugely successful UK leg of their world tour.

Northlane are touring to promote their latest album Node, and regular readers of this music column will recall their album earned top marks when I reviewed it recently.

Node is the third long player from New South Wales's finest – and it's a MONSTER. Easily their finest to date, it combines swirling psychedelic soundscapes with bursts of pummelling progressive heaviness.

New singer Marcus Bridge offers a vocal range that picks up where former frontman Adrian Fitipaldes left off, but also offers something a bit more extreme in the death growl department, which gives the album's singles – Obelisk, Rot and Leech – a little more muscle

Northlane play their last UK date tonight at Southampton's Talking Heads Venue. Hurry! If there are any tickets left they won't be around for long!

Polaris by TesseracT ★★★★★

THE prog rock and metal scene is as strong as it's been in years thanks to an injection of new blood. One of the bands leading prog's new wave is Milton Keynes' own TesseracT.

Their latest album Polaris is a perfectly put together concoction of calm, restrained melodies and huge, spaced-out riffery.

Hexes and Survival are two tracks that highlight TesseracT's calmer nature, and both are mesmerising.

For a feel of their harsher side, check out opening track Dystopia and the frantic Messenger.

Each track is huge. Composed and restrained one moment, frenetic and energetic the next.

The synchronisation and interplay between guitars and percussion is a thing of wonder, and the mix of clean vocals and growls gives TesseracT's sound that hard edge adopted by many of their contemporaries. Polaris is great album packed with moments of wonder.

WIN A SIGNED TRIBULATION ALBUM!

THERE'S still time to enter our amazing Tribulation competition!

The Swedish death metallers have just released their latest album Children of the Night – and we've got our hands on some SIGNED copies to give away!

To be in with a chance of winning one simply answer the following question...

Q: Which Scandinavian country do Tribulation come from?

a) Sweden b) Norway c) Denmark

Send your answer, along with the address you'd like your signed CD sending to should you be a winner, to musiccomp@sundaysport.co.uk

Good luck, readers!

CATCH CHILDREN OF BODOM, LAMB OF GOD AND MEGADETH LIVE!

ONE of the biggest thrash metal tours to reach these shores in years kicks off this November.

The godfathers of thrash Megadeth are teaming up with fellow platinum-selling headbangers Lamb of God and Finnish masters of dark melody Children of Bodom for what promises to be a UK rampage of epic proportions!

Both bands will be promoting new releases (Lamb of God's VII: Sturm Und Drang is in shops now, while Megadeth have revealed plans for a new album later in the year) – but don't be surprised if these heavy metal titans take the opportunity to belt out some crowd favourites from their back catalogues.

Here's where to witness the unholy alliance...

FIVE MINUTES WITH...

Kelly McGREGOR

MODEL Kelly McGregor has more in common with Kim Kardashian than just killer curves.

Because the busty beauty has also starred in her own steamy SEX TAPE.

And while Kim's saucy on-screen antics set her on the path to global fame and fortune, Kelly is hoping her blue movie never again sees the light of day.

Top-heavy Kelly, who boasts 32DD chesticles, filmed the X-rated vid with an ex-boyfriend.

And the 27-year-old, from Stoke-on-Trent, admits it features scenes to make even a hardened sex worker blush!

Here, Weekend Sport finds out more of Kelly's naughty secrets...

WHAT DO YOU LIKE MOST IN THE BEDROOM?

I would say everything! I love sex so much I couldn't really pinpoint one particular thing.

I just enjoy the entire process – from the foreplay to the actual deed with someone you like.

Feeling their naked body against yours is amazing.

TELL US ABOUT THIS SEX TAPE...

It was made when I was younger, with an old boyfriend.

It was quite rude and we did it in loads of different positions.

Luckily, we split up on good terms because the video camera was his and he kept the tape!

But sometimes I get scared thinking: "What if he gets burgled and the tape gets stolen?"

I think I might be just a little bit embarrassed if the world saw me having sex.

ARE YOU INTO LESBO ACTION?

I've never had full sex with a girl, although it's something I would consider if I fancied her.

I have messed about with mates – kissing and fondling in clubs – but mainly because it turns the men on.

WHAT'S YOUR BIGGEST TURN-OFF?

Body odour! Touch wood, I've never been in bed with a man with smelly pits!

But I've obviously smelled sweat on people when I'm out and about. I think it's disgusting and there's no excuse for it.

DO YOU LIKE NIPPLE PLAY?

Yes, I love to play with a man's nipples. I think they're quite funny, and blokes I've been with have always enjoyed it.

I'm not bothered if the guy plays with mine, although the attention is nice. I wouldn't say it turns me on, really.

HAVE YOU EVER SHAGGED IN FRONT OF THE MIRROR?

Lots of times! I've got a mirror that swivels around in my room, so if I'm feeling a bit kinky I'll turn it to face us in action.

I love watching myself having sex and most guys like it, too. I can see them watching my big boobs bounce up and down.

DO YOU LIKE GIVING OR RECEIVING ORAL SEX?

Oh yes – and 69s are great, too!

It's fun when you're both being pleasured at the same time.

It's a real turn-on.

EVER FLICKED YOUR BEAN OVER SOMEONE YOU SHOULDN'T?

I'm not going to name any names because it's far too embarrassing, but I did once masturbate over a famous politician.

It was a spur-of-the-moment thing and he was on television at the time.

I didn't fancy him, but at that moment in time he was 'the one'!

LONG, SLOW SEX OR A ROUGH AND READY QUICKIE?

Again, it just depends on the time, place and mood I'm in.

I like my bonking to be quite Neanderthal, actually.

Let's keep it real and back to basics, like cavemen did it.

There's nothing wrong with that, is there?

DO YOU SPIT OR SWALLOW?

Well, that's a personal question! Erm, it depends what mood I'm in.

I don't have a policy where I automatically spit.

It just depends if I'm in the zone, if you know what I mean.

TRAVEL

By JUSTIN DUNN justin@sundaysport.co.uk

World's top selfie backdrops

ADMIT it – even the least sentimental among you likes a great view, even if it's just a backdrop for your next selfie!

The rush you feel while standing on the edge of the sprawling Grand Canyon is a traveller's rite of passage.

The 277 miles of gold and bronze-hued landscape is one of the natural world's most gorgeous sights to behold.

Add a soft blue sky to the mix, and you've got yourself one of the world's best panoramas.

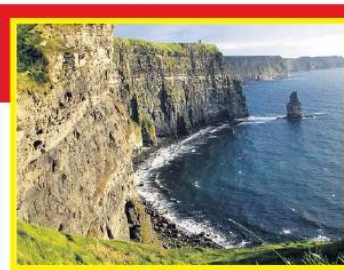
From the Grand Canyon to the Matterhorn, the world's most iconic vistas are popular for good reason.

From the Paris skyline to the rocky cliffs of Bhutan's Paro Valley, here are arguably the 10 best views from around the globe.

MANHATTAN SKYLINE

VINTAGE skyscrapers like the Chrysler, Flatiron, and Woolworth are gawking-worthy, but nothing beats the iconic Empire State Building, which still holds the top spot on the American Institute of Architects' list of favourite architecture.

Try the year-round rooftop deck at Alma, in Brooklyn's emerging Columbia Street Waterfront District – an ideal place to study the lower Manhattan skyline over a margarita cocktail.



CLIFFS OF MOHER

STAND on the blustery edge of Ireland's rocky Atlantic-battered cliffs and you'll feel as though you've arrived at the true end of the world, with nothing but 2,000 miles of briny sea swells between you and Newfoundland.

The view from atop Moher is breathtaking, but experiencing it on the water is better – hop on a surfboard at the nearby Lahinch Surf School and conquer Aill na Searrach, the giant wave of Moher.

GREAT WALL OF CHINA

MILLIONS of people over the course of 21 centuries helped construct, rebuild, and maintain the Great Wall of China, which dips, rises, and bends across the country for some 6,000 miles.

The theory that it's visible from space is actually bollocks, but its still an immense engineering achievement and its man-made beauty is unquestionable.

MACHU PICCHU

THOUGH many theories exist about Machu Picchu's purpose – a prison, a resort, an agricultural test site, an aristocratic estate – there's no denying the cosmic beauty of these methodically carved, fog-covered peaks, engineered by the Incas back in the 15th century.

To witness dawn spilling over the lush Peruvian Urubamba Valley is an unforgettable experience.

PARIS SKYLINE

NAPOLEON is credited with transforming the City of Light during the Second Empire, but it was engineer Gustave Eiffel who helped define the cityscape with a colossal iron lattice tower.

It has become a symbol of romance that can be seen sparkling from even the remotest corners of Paris's 20th Arrondissement.

Take your missus and you're onto a winner.

THE MATTERHORN

A WHOPPING 500 climbers have died attempting to reach the rocky 14,692-foot summit of Switzerland's majestic Matterhorn.

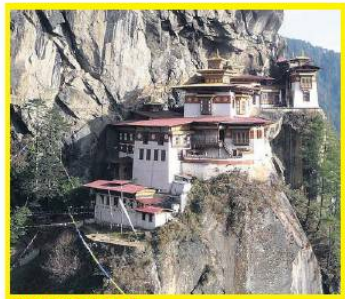
The snow-covered, saw-toothed peak has a pyramid summit that has become the textbook illustration of alpinism's golden age and all its triumphs.

Scary stuff, though!

GREAT BARRIER REEF

THE world's largest reef system, off the coast of Australia, casts a spectacular underwater glow that is unlike any colour you'll find above the surface.

Thousands of species live on the reef – including sea-dragons, giant cuttlefish, saltwater crocodiles and 134 species of sharks and rays.



TIGER'S NEST

THE Tiger's Nest – or Paro Taktsang Monastery – clings like lichen to rocky cliffs in Bhutan's Paro Valley and creates an awed silence among visitors, broken only by the sound of rustling prayer flags and chanting monks.

The best vistas are from the gardens of Sangtopelri and at the top of the mountain above Tiger's Nest.

GOLDEN GATE BRIDGE

THE iconic bridge's trademark "International Orange" gleam offers a wild contrast against the cobalt San Francisco Bay and the ghostly white fog that often hovers above both.

Built during the Depression, in 1937, by the Works Progress Administration, the bridge is an emblem of California's free spirit.

GRAND CANYON

IT'S big. REALLY big.

We're talking 277 miles long, up to 18 miles wide, and one mile deep.

And while it's not the world's deepest or widest canyon, it is still undoubtedly the most colourful.

The Grand Canyon also exposes ancient strata – two billion years of earth's rust-hued history, a visual experience that is not easily captured on film and can't be found anywhere else in the world.

FRIDAY FRANCOME

THE GREATEST JOCKEY'S EXCLUSIVE Weekend Sport COLUMN

DETTORI PARTY STILL GOING!

THEY always say the Grand National is extra special because there is a great story behind the winner every year.

Actually it is true of 99 per cent of races it's just that usually nobody asks.

And so it proved last Sunday in the Arc De Triomphe.

The scriptwriters had penned an unprecedented third success for French wonder mare Treve.

It wasn't to be. She finished late, wide and fast into fourth and while jockey Thierry Jarnet copped a lot of flack for his ride I don't think it was entirely deserved.

It wasn't his finest hour but I have seen plenty more inferior efforts in big events.

That doesn't mean we were to be denied an excellent tale.

Another conquering hero came back for an extra taste of glory — Frankie Dettori.

The Milan-born jockey who grew up wanting to be a petrol-pump attendant turns 45 in December but he showed he still has plenty in the tank with his fourth Arc win, this time on John Gosden's Golden Horn.

I always smile when interviewers congratulate winning jockeys with the phrase "you gave that a great ride" and while sometimes it's true, often it might be because most of the fancied nags ran like hairy-arsed goats.

But Frankie deserved the accolade because it was a high class renewal of the race and he was handed the worst draw of all (and I don't think Johnny G was only joking when he hinted at a conspiracy).

Yet Frankie proved he isn't too old to watch and learn and he had clearly spotted the place to be was next to the far rail where, in the earlier races, those who raced prominently on the better strip of ground enjoyed a big advantage.

He managed to get Golden Horn out quickly to get across without using too much gas.

Frankie made it look pretty comfortable and it was no surprise to hear that the winner will now have a deserved crack at the Breeders' Cup Turf in Kentucky early next month.

Whale

Nor was it the greatest shock to discover Frankie was giving up his rides at Windsor on Monday. He was in touch the morning after the night before, still in Paris, to say his fellow jocks had great fun taking it in turns to pour champagne down his throat, straight from the bottle.

It's fair to say the riders, unlike those watching from the stands, can't withstand too much refreshment.

Terry Biddlecome and Jeff King were the notable exceptions — both could drink a blue whale under the table — but that's a story for another day.

Frankie, if he has dried out, is my pick to get a great weekend of televised racing off to a flier today with NATHRA (3.10 Newmarket) in the Dubai Fillies' Mile, again for that man Gosden.

The Aidan O'Brien duo Coolmore and Minding are sure to be popular but what sways me is Nathra's debut win in a maiden at Salisbury where she showed not a hint of greenness scoring by a cosy length and three-quarters.

The second Light Music was the most impressive winner of any Flat race I have seen this season when she hacked up by 14 lengths in a Leicester maiden this Tuesday.

Nathra herself went of to win a reasonable Newbury conditions event by seven lengths and remains open to get more improvement.

Another potential improver is DURETTO (3.45) in the next race. The three-year-old is already gelded but won at Ascot under today's jockey Jim Crowley who has a good record for trainer Andrew Balding.

Tomorrow it's the Dewhurst Stakes (3.10) again at Newmarket. It's billed as a match between well-backed Emotionless for Godolphin and Will Buick and Aidan O'Brien's AIR FORCE ONE who I expect to have the stronger turn of foot.

The big betting race is the Cesarewitch, a contest which starts in one county (Suffolk) and ends in another (Cambridgeshire).

As always it's a bookies' benefit but we'll keep faith with LOW KEY (3.45) for David Pipe and talented apprentice Tom Marquand. The combination won the trial over course and distance last month and, despite being lightly-raced in recent years, is on a four-timer if you include a victory over timber at Stratford in August.

Have a saver on Renneti as an each-way insurance policy.

I've been renewing all my insurance policies and the racket has moved on a lot. You can now insure against accidents of a sexual nature.

They even advise you which firm to go with, depending on the sort of nookie you have.

Prossie

For sex with the missus it's Legal And General, with a future wife Mutual Trust; if you drill your secretary you want Employers' Liability, or with a prossie it's Commercial Union.

If you like phone sex it has to be Direct Line, a hurried knee-tremble is Insure and Go while partners' rumpty requires Standard Life.

If it turns out your girl is a transvestite, Confused.com and with your sister-in-law you need Go Compare. With a fat girl it's More Than, a posh girl is Privilege.com and in the back seat of a car it's Sheila's Wheels.

Finally, congratulations to Chinese professor Tu Youyou on winning the Nobel Prize in Medicine . . . and for being the most confusing person to sing Happy Birthday to. Be lucky.

GERMAN BITE: Shining Emerald

Wohler's wonder up for battle

HORSE RACING

GERMAN racing is mounting a Newmarket invasion today.

Trainer Andreas Wohler has high hopes that his Shining Emerald will carry off the Dubai Challenge Stakes.

The horse has flourished after moving to Germany from Ireland over the winter.

He won a Group 2 at Baden Baden last time and that's decent form heading to the home of British racing. Hopes must be high as ace rider Ryan Moore is in the saddle.

Wohler said: "He is a horse who has kept improving and some of his form is really quite good.

It is German form and it is hard to say how it compares, but I think it is not too bad.

"We're bringing him to England as there is really nothing else for him.

"He won over six furlongs last time, which is a little bit on the short side. I think stepping back up to seven furlongs will suit him.

Stiff

"He has to carry top weight, but there is nothing we can do about that.

"He is a horse who likes soft ground and I hope he will run well."

There will be stiff competition from the home team, with Hugo Palmer holding out high hopes for his Ascription.

He is quietly fancied after his second to Hathal in Newbury's Dubai Duty Free Stakes.

Palmer said: "He's won quite a lot of prize-money without actually getting his head in front and it's been great just to have him back running.

"It has been quite a long season for him. He ran at the Dante meeting but he is a gelding and still seems in good form at home.

"A bit of dig in the ground would be ideal for him."

Roger Varian thinks the going has come right for last year's Dewhurst Stakes winner Belardo.

He said: "Belardo returns to the course and distance of his impressive Dewhurst Stakes victory with ground conditions in his favour.

"He is working well at home and we are optimistic that he can bounce back to form."

TURBO READY TO KO DIEGO

TURBO BOOST: Terry Flanagan

I'm no fluke champ, says fiery Flanagan

TERRY Flanagan believes he will steam through Diego Magdaleno — and prove he is no fluke world champion.

'Turbo' Terry makes the first defence of his WBO lightweight title against Magdaleno at Manchester Arena on Saturday night.

He won the vacant title in July when Magdaleno's fellow Yank Jose Zepeda suffered a freak shoulder injury, that forced him out after two rounds, meaning Flanagan was crowned king.

The unbeaten Mancunian, 26, knows he must deliver in style in the all-southpaw to show that he deserves to be on top of the world.

Flanagan who has won all 28 fights said: "Once I deal with Magdaleno, there will be no questions about my credentials of being world champion.

Estate

"I can't wait now, I'm only a few days aways from the fight, my training has been perfect and now I've got to put everything into action on the night."

Flanagan hasn't allowed new found fame to go to his head and still lives in a council house on an estate, but is clubbing together his fight wages to buy a home outright.

Friends have also suggested he invests in new car, but he is sticking with his Polo car to drive about.

The former scaffolders labourer added: "People say get a new car, but I only use it to drive to the gym.

"The only other place I go is to watch Manchester City at home, and that is a short walk.

"I'm not bothered about cars – I'd rather buy a house than a nice fancy car and drive about like I'm someone I'm not."

He is forking out for ten days in Lanzarote with his partner and son next week, but knows mandatory challenger Magdaleno is a tough first defence.

The Las Vegas man has had 29 fights, with his only loss a disputed points defeat against Roman Martinez in a WBO super-featherweight challenge.

Magdaleno, 28, credits trainer Joel Diaz for his recent run of form, who he joined after the world title loss.

He says: "My secret weapon is my move to Joel Diaz. Everything has been great since that move.

"We have been together for five fights. Three wins have come by knockout but I have put every opponent down. The power is there and I am more than ready for this fight.

"I learnt a lot from the Martinez fight and I know what it takes to be a champion.

"You have to go down and take it.

"I have moved on from that fight and Joel is the mastermind.

"I am a machine and he programs me."

MURRAY IN A HURRY FOR TITLE

MARTIN MURRAY insists he will become a world champion in his fourth challenge.

The St Helens man takes on Germany's WBO super-middleweight champion Arthur Abraham in Hannover.

Murray has proved he belongs at the highest level having tested himself against middleweight world champions Felix Sturm, Sergio Martinez and Gennady Golovkin, but falling short.

He believes moving up to 12st will finally see him land the big one even though he is in enemy territory.

Murray knows it will be his final shot and added: "I was shocked when Arthur agreed to the fight, it's one he didn't have to take so must be confident.

"It's the fight that I targeted when I chose to move up to super-middleweight and it's one that I am confident of winning.

"I know that Arthur is a great champion and a tough man to beat on his home patch, but my trainer Oliver Harrison and I both believe that we have the formula to take his title."

Rhinos want to give vets Grand finale

RUGBY LEAGUE: LEEDS v WIGAN, SAT 6PM, SKYSP1

LEEDS Rhinos boss Brian McDermott says his side is desperate to give three heroes a winning send-off.

Club legends Kevin Sinfield, Jamie Peacock and Kylie Leuluai are hanging up their boots after the Grand Final at Old Trafford.

McDermott admits that his players are knackered after a long season. But the motivation is strong for the crucial clash against Wigan.

He said: "There's enough energy there. I think during the season when you have a big one there is a level of concern for the week after but, while we've been in some really tough encounters lately, I've no real qualms about how fresh they are.

LEGEND: Sinfield

"It's a fantastic stage and they'll get up for the game.

"There's a couple of carrots dangling in front of us. One is to do the treble and that in itself would be remarkable.

"It rarely gets done. You've actually got to be very good to be in a position to do it.

"And the story within all that is that we want to send these three fellas off the right way.

"I should imagine all those players will say the contrary but there will be a bit of emotion. However, they're all wise enough to handle it.

"We're all aware this could be a really good send-off, a chance-in-a-lifetime opportunity for all of us to see those three go out on a high. I think when you've a chance to do something very, very special, as well as getting a treble, it gives you a bit of a boost."

VETERAN: Peacock

Wigan have a send-off of their own with Joe Burgess heading to Australia.

The 20-year-old winger is leaving his home town club to sign for Sydney Roosters.

He's desperate to finish on a high, saying: "I've been a fan all my life and to go out with a Grand Final, I can't wait.

"I couldn't have asked for a better chance to go out.

"I'm desperate for it, I can't wait to see my family's faces if I walk off Old Trafford with a winner's ring on my finger.

"I've not even thought about Australia – my full focus is on helping win a Grand Final."

F1 is sh*t says Brit track boss

FORMULA ONE

GRAND Prix racing is a load of shit — according to the man who runs Silverstone.

Patrick Allen has fallen out with F1 boss Bernie Ecclestone (pictured) over how much the sport pays for his track to stage the British Grand Prix.

More than 120,000 turned up for this year's event but it's getting harder to put bums on seats, says the Silverstone chief.

Allen said: "Months and months back I said it to Mr E himself that I can't sell tickets for a shit product.

"Fans don't want to see a procession. As a promoter I can only promote what you give me and if that isn't up to standard, people aren't going to buy.

"I've said that people don't come to watch guys looking at data screens. Fans want to see gladiators racing and fighting it out in a fair fight.

"Nobody wants to hear drivers getting told to 'lift', 'coast' or 'we're not going to catch the guy in front, settle for second'.

"I think it is criminal when we have got to that state of racing and that is not saleable. I think Bernie is as frustrated with it as we all are.

"How long is it before the technical director is stood on the top step, not the driver? You've just got to throw the towel in then and look for something else."

CRISIS GROWS AT THE TOP OF WORLD FOOTBALL

SEPP-TIC GETS TANKED

Blat and Plat both banned

SEPP Blatter's days as FIFA chief finally look over after he was suspended from all football activities for at least 90 days.

The man who hopes to take over from old Sepp-tic — UEFA head Michel Platini — has also been banned, along with general secretary Jerome Valcke.

Ironically, it is the very FIFA ethics committee that Blatter set up which has kicked him into touch after 17 years at the top of world football.

The suspended trio all deny any wrongdoing.

They have been under fire ever since Swiss cops started a criminal investigation around World Cup television rights.

The probe is looking into a contract involving disgraced former FIFA official Jack Warner and also a payment of £1.3m made to Platini by the game's governing body.

Allegations

The money to the Frenchman was for his job as an adviser to Blatter between 1998 and 2002.

But he didn't get the payment until 2011, just before the 79-year-old won his second term in charge.

FIFA have now told Blatter that he's been "relieved of his duties" after 40 years with the organisation and he cannot represent it in any form during his suspension.

Valcke has already been put on leave in connection with allegations over the sale of World Cup tickets.

Now he's been included in this ban, which could be extended for a further 45 days.

With Blatter out of the way, the current FIFA boss is Issa Hayatou, who has himself been censured in the past by the International Olympic Committee over alleged bribes.

He's just changed his own African federation's rules so he could stay on as its president after 27 years in charge.

90 DAYS: Platini

So he's hardly the new broom that's needed at FIFA.

Platini is furious that he's been dragged into the mire alongside Blatter.

It puts a massive hole in his chances of taking over from Sepp in next year's elections.

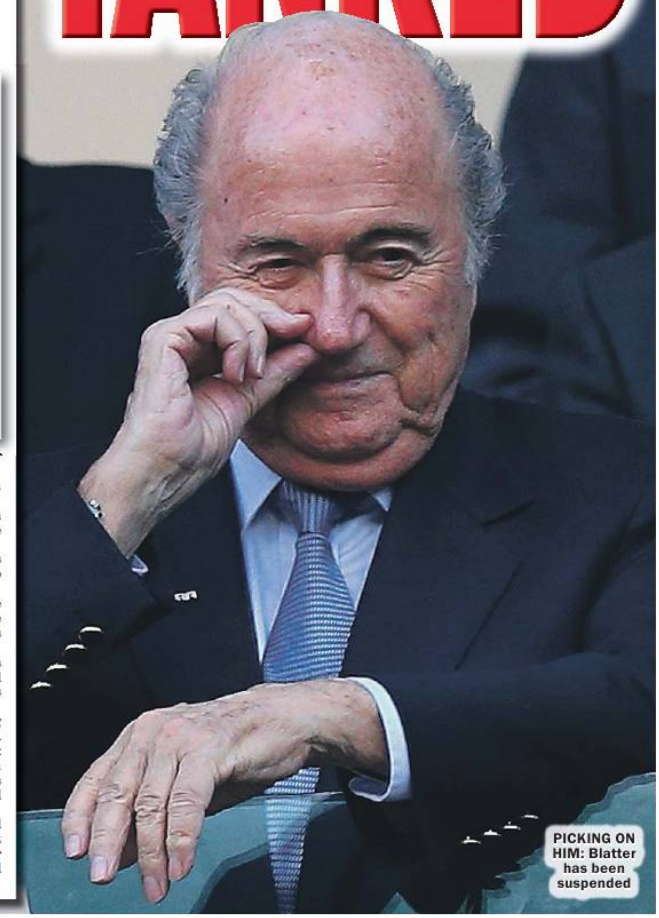
Just before being banned, he put in his papers to stand in the vote, along with the nominations he needs from associations.

England is one of the countries that has been backing Platini and his suspension sent shockwaves through the FA.

And there were plenty of big names having their say on Twitter.

Gary Lineker led the way: "Blatter and Platini banned from the game...FIFA, once more, holds its head in shame. #National PoetryDay".

And former Manchester United striker Andy Cole is in no doubt who should take over: ""Blatter suspended.. Step forward David Gill #fifa".



PICKING ON HIM: Blatter has been suspended

PUMPED: Laidlaw

We have Scot to win says Greig

RUGBY WORLD CUP

SCOTLAND skipper Greig Laidlaw has urged his troops to make sure they don't blow a quarter-final place.

The Blues only have to beat Samoa tomorrow to qualify for the last eight.

It would be all the sweeter too because of England's failure to get through.

Scotland haven't made it to the knockout stage since 2007 and Laidlaw is desperate to right that wrong.

He said: "We are extremely motivated. We players are desperate to win this match as we want to be in the World Cup quarter-finals.

"We've worked very hard to come from where we were to get to where we are at the moment.

Loose

"Now we need one more push this weekend.

"We need to put the fact we are regarded as favourites to one side and just look at Samoa.

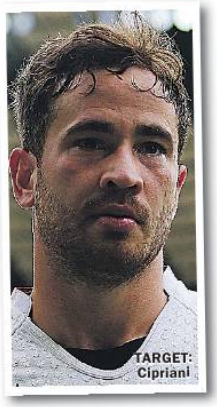
"I still think they are a dangerous team and we have to be at our best.

"Maybe the fact they have nothing to play for will make them slightly loose this weekend but if we defend properly we feel there will be opportunities for us to attack.

"They have dangerous individuals and we will be on guard to make sure we cover up.

"We'll give the maximum respect to Samoa but I feel if we get our part right we'll put ourselves in the best position to win the game."

If Scotland don't win, Japan will nick their place if they beat America on Sunday.



TARGET: Cipriani

DAN WANTS THE JOY OF SIX

RUGBY UNION

DANNY Cipriani has set his sights on winning his place back in the England side.

He famously fell out with Red Rose attacking coach Mike Catt on the eve of the World Cup.

That saw him dumped from the squad — and many insiders say the bad atmosphere in the camp has had a lot to do with England crashing out of the tournament.

But the 27-year-old just wants to pull a white shirt on again and is targeting the Six Nations for his comeback.

He said: "We now need to regroup and rebuild. Whatever happens, we need to move forward as one now.

"I don't think there's a reason to panic and think that the English game is doomed. There are still a lot of world-class players in that England squad.

"For me, playing for England is still my dream. The commitment and drive to put on the white shirt is still there.

"Everyone is going to go out there and put their hands up and say 'pick me'.

"Sale Sharks are now my priority along with getting stuck into the season. If I play well for them, that's all I can do to be selected for the Six Nations squad."

And he played down the bust-up with Catt, saying: "There has been a lot said about a training ground incident I had with Mike.

"I respect what happens in the England camp and what goes on there, stays there.

"We spoke and addressed the issue the next day and we have a good working relationship."

George Ford is another England player who has been keeping things positive.

He's not had a great World Cup and has had to play second fiddle to Owen Farrell.

Yet he's not bitter, just disappointed that things didn't work out better.

He said: "When you get knocked out of a tournament like this, everyone is gutted and it's not great. You are moping around the hotel, thinking about what you could have done."

But he admits he was gutted to be dropped against Australia.

He said: "We're on the biggest stage in a World Cup in our own country, so of course you want to put your best foot forward and perform as well as you can.

"We wanted to pick some good results up, give this a real shot and challenge to win the thing. We've come up short by a long way but we will take it on the chin and this week it's another game for our country and we're excited to go up to Manchester."

THEO'S MY MAN IN THE MIDDLE

ENGLAND v ESTONIA

★England have played Estonia three times and have won all three, including two away games.

The Three Lions have scored seven and conceded none. The last home game resulted in a 3-0 victory. England will win the game but they will have to do it without their record goal scorer Wayne Rooney. He's been in hot form for the Three Lions, scoring 10 goals in 12 appearances since being made permanent captain.

Hodgson will have to turn to his able deputies of Walcott and Kane. The former put in a sensational performance for his club Arsenal in his last game when they thumped Man Utd 3-0. Walcott is maturing and looking more and more exciting in the striker role. He's got sensational pace and now he's getting more consistent in front of goal he's fast becoming a player that can win games for both club and country. It will be both interesting and exciting to see if Hodgson gives the pairing of Walcott and Kane an outing. This combination could be electric and one that could reap rich rewards.

Walcott has been capped 41 times now for England and scored seven goals. On the face of it that stat is not sensational but he's only ever played four full games.

Hodgson and previous managers have not really embraced Walcott but in his current form I will be very disappointed if he does not only start with him but gives him 90 minutes.

Defenders hate pace and Walcott's biggest attribute is just that. Get him bedded in properly in his role ready for the Euros because he could be the key to England having a great tournament. Imagine Kane up front with Walcott and Rooney just in behind them pulling the strings.

England will win at 1/6 but I know you want something better than that so look at Walcott to score and England to win at 6/5. For something even bigger look at Walcott to score and England to win 3-0 at 19/1.

SLOVAKIA v BELARUS

★Slovakia sit second in Group C only two points behind the mighty Spain.

They've won six of their eight games and only tasted defeat once in qualifying away to Spain.

They sensationally beat Spain 2-1 last October at home and it's fair to say Jan Kozak's men have not looked back since. Slovakia have banged in 13 goals and only conceded 5 and should be too much for Belarus tonight.

I'm a big fan of midfielder Marek Hamsik who plays his club football for Napoli.

He is the big danger man and Belarus will have their work cut out to stop this midfield maestro. If you are not jumping up and down about the 3/5 for a Slovakia win have a look at Hamsik to score and Slovakia to win at 9/4.

CROATIA v BULGARIA

★Bulgaria used to be a force but long gone are the days of the great Hristo Stoichkov.

They won't be heading to France but in stark contrast Croatia have a real chance to make it to another big finals. They currently sit in third only two points behind Norway and four behind leaders Italy.

You can't see Norway slipping up against Malta or Italy against Azerbaijan so this is a must win game.

Italy and Norway must face each other in the last match and it gives Croatia a great opportunity despite them having one point deducted by the governing body.

Get on Croatia at 1/3 or 20/21 for them to win HT and FT.

TALKING POINT

★It looks more and more likely that Jurgen Klopp will be landing at Anfield.

In fact, by the time you read this I'd not be surprised if he had not already taken over the reins of Liverpool Football Club.

He's a brilliant manager but also a very funny man and this is what Liverpool fans can look forward to:

Klopp on Arsene Wenger: "He likes having the ball, playing football, passes. It's like an orchestra. But it's a silent song. I like heavy metal."

Klopp on himself: "I had the talent for the fifth division and the mind for the Bundesliga. The result was a playing career in division two."

Klopp on Hummels joining Man Utd: "If that's not a b* story, I'll eat a broom stick."

Klopp on Bayern Munich: "We have a bow and arrow and if we aim well, we can hit the target. The problem is that Bayern has a bazooka. But then apparently Robin Hood was quite successful."

I don't know about you but Klopp could be a lot of fun in press conferences if and when he does become the Reds manager and I'm sure the Liverpool fans will love him! Let me know your thoughts.

KANE AND ABLE: Harry and hot-shot Wayne could fire England to success in the Euros

Lions 10/1 to roar in France

ENGLAND are already in the Euros and it might be worth looking forward to next summer when, for the first time, 24 sides will line up for the finals in France.

The teams will be drawn into six groups of four and the six Group winners, six runners up and the four best third-placed teams will progress.

After the groups only eight teams will be eliminated before the knockout stages!

England remain 10/1 at BetVictor to win Euro 2016 behind Germany (11/4), France (4/1) and Spain 6/1 although I'm not convinced the latter can retain the Trophy they won in Kiev four years ago.

All that is in the future, in the present I hope Roy Hodgson shuffles his pack against Estonia tonight and perhaps see what the Three Lions can do without their captain.

Theo Walcott has scored four times in his last seven games for Arsenal and looked sharp, despite not finding the back of the net, against Man United last weekend.

Wayne Rooney, on the other hand, continues to disappoint for his club and is struggling for fitness ahead of tonight's Wembley clash.

Walcott became England's youngest ever player when making his debut at 17, and it will be interesting to see if Hodgson plays the in-form Gooner who is 19/5 to score the opener and 10/11 to find the back of the net at anytime with BetVictor.

Walcott is 4/1 to be the top Arsenal goalscorer, but with Alexis Sanchez (2/5) back to his brilliant best that might be a difficult task, but more interesting is the market to be top English Premier League goalscorer.

Jamie Vardy is the first name down on the team sheet at Leicester City in his current form, but boss Claudio Ranieri hasn't been given the nickname "Tinkerman" for nothing.

The Foxes striker is far too short in the betting and with Rooney struggling for form that leaves Walcott, Harry Kane and Daniel Sturridge.

Top Premer League goalscorer 2015/16: prices from BetVictor

Jamie Vardy (7):	6/4
Daniel Sturridge (2):	4/1
Wayne Rooney (1):	6/1
Theo Walcott (2):	7/1
Harry Kane (1):	8/1
Danny Ings (2):	16/1
Berahino (2):	20/1

Sturridge is Hodgson's best striker, but can he be kept out of the treatment room?

Vardy is 2/1 to make Hodgson's 23-man squad next summer with Spurs midfielder Dele Ali in at 7/2 having made the squad for the last two qualifiers – England travel to Slovenia on Monday evening.

Having won their first eight group games, the squad will be looking to make it a perfect 10, and we bet 8/13 that the Three Lions beat Estonia and Slovenia on Monday.

Qualification has hardly been a Group of Death scenario, but Hodgson's squad deserve plenty of credit for the professional way they have done the job.

Whisper it, but we dismissed the chances of our cricket side this summer, could the Three Lions surprise us next summer? (we won't mention the egg-chasers!)

CATS BOSS COULD BE 'SMALL' SAM

SUNDERLAND will offer Sam Allardyce the manager's job – IF he drops his financial demands.

The former Bolton and West Ham boss is the Black Cats' No.1 choice to replace Dick Advocaat.

But the club are running scared of his demands for a big transfer kitty – plus a hefty bonus if he keeps them in the Premier League.

The 60-year-old had a similar deal with the Hammers, pocketing a fortune when he led them up from the Championship.

The former Sunderland player reportedly thinks there's little hope of the current squad avoiding the drop and he wants to spend big in January.

While owner Ellis Short is not known for putting his hand in his pocket, missing out on the massive new Premier League TV deals that kicks in next season would be a disaster for the club.

And it's not as though Sunderland have a queue of top managers waiting to take the job.

David Moyes, Harry Redknapp, Sean Dyche and Nigel Pearson have all distanced themselves from the soap opera on Wearside.

BEST MAN: Allardyce

Realistic

And Sunderland fans won't be heartened to hear some of the names now being linked.

Former USA coach Bob Bradley is the latest man to throw his hat into the ring.

He's currently boss of Stabaek, who sit second in the Norwegian first division.

On paper he doesn't look like a bad fit with all his top international experience and should be able to work with fellow American Short.

But it's fair to say that Stabaek would probably be a League One side in English terms, with their attendances usually around 3,500.

That's a far cry from the passion of 45,000 at the Stadium Of Light, but Bradley thinks he's the man for the job.

He said: "In a club like Sunderland there are more chances, but there are many managers who are ready when such a job is vacant.

"I am realistic and realise that there is a long list for such jobs.

"But I am also confident. I believe in myself as a coach. I know that I can walk into any situation and give everything I have."

Former Sunderland boss Gus Poyet says Allardyce is by far the best man for the job.

He said: "Sam Allardyce is the right man.

"But first of all I don't know if Sam would like to go and maybe I'm putting it a little on Sam and he is going to kill me next time I see him."

Ryan's a Brit closer to a full comeback

STOKE skipper Ryan Shawcross hopes to be back at the Britannia Stadium after the international break.

The defender has been out this season after a back operation six months ago.

He has played his first game since then – against Port Vale in the Under-21s – and came through it with no new problems.

Shawcross (below) said: "It was always planned to play 45 minutes. I've got a few niggles just from coming back so I need to let them settle down and hopefully I can kick on again next week.

"I felt good. It's just a case of building on it now. Hopefully next week I can get a 70-minute game in and then move on to a full game in the coming weeks.

"It's up to the manager to see when I can get back involved. I haven't trained with the first team yet so I'll look forward to doing that.

"But I will stay with the Under-21s for probably another week or so. It's all about game time and then we'll see after that. At the moment I'm trying to make sure I get the right minutes and the training between them is right.

"It's a relief after quite a while of being impinged that I can move freely. My day to day life has been a lot better and it's been quite nice. I can pick up my kids again."

WALES ON THE BRINK OF MAKING HISTORY

GAZ CAN BALE US OUT

Gunter happy to see return of superstar

WALES defender Chris Gunter expects Gareth Bale to lead out the Dragons tomorrow night — despite just coming back from injury.

The Real Madrid galactico has been struggling with a calf injury but came off the bench against Atletico at the weekend.

And that has been a massive boost to his international team-mates, who know just how important Bale is. He's scored six and made a further two of their goals in qualifying.

Now they need just a point either against the Bosnians or from minnows Andorra in Cardiff next week.

But Gunter is desperate to get the job done tomorrow so the party can start.

Having Bale back in the set-up is a big part of that.

Gunter said: "Gareth is here, he's fit, he's done the same as everybody else.

"It's brilliant news for us and the gaffer.

"I don't think, if he's fit and here, we'll look beyond the game at the weekend.

"It'd be a brave man to tell him he's not playing on Saturday.

"If he's fit I'm sure he'll be involved and hopefully in the same form as the rest of the campaign."

Gunter is a veteran of some near-misses for Wales when it comes to qualifying for major tournaments — and he's determined to make sure they don't cock things up this time.

Bosnia-Herzegovina v Wales

Saturday, 7.45pm kick-off, live on Sky Sports 2

The Reading full-back is determined to end the nation's 57-year wait for a finals.

Welsh star players like Neville Southall, Ryan Giggs, Mark Hughes and Ian Rush never made it to a summer tournament.

Gunter said: "It's been a hard time. We aren't the biggest nation, but we've probably underachieved.

Celebrating

"I remember Romania in 1993 and the Russia campaign in 2003.

"The closer we get over the years, the more these questions seem to come.

"It's nice to be involved in the right sort of scenarios towards the end of the group.

"We played Belgium when they celebrated getting to the World Cup and we've put ourselves in that position now.

"The near misses are there as a reminder that in football even the most unlikely thing can happen.

"We've worked so hard for so long, it'd be a massive mistake to get complacent and think the job is done.

"If we start thinking we'll be celebrating on Saturday night we'll be caught out.

"It's a really tough game. We have done well because we've always prepared in the right way.

"Until we've qualified we have to concentrate as anything can happen."

DAVID'S BAD DAYS ARE IN DE PAST

By ANDY MILLOM

DAVID DE GEA says the on-off saga of his transfer to Real Madrid is now ancient history.

The Manchester United goalie was all but signed by the Spanish giants only for the move to fall through in the final minutes of the transfer window.

He had been banished to the stands for weeks by boss Louis van Gaal — who preferred free transfer Sergio Romero.

But after that cock-up, De Gea signed a new deal at Old Trafford and has settled back in as first-choice keeper.

He said: "I am a guy who likes to put the bad things and difficult moments behind me.

"I had a lot of tough times and I know what it is. You have to move forward and keep working just as hard.

"It is a learning process that football gives you, tough moments that make you mature and grow.

"They are the things you learn from the world of football. You have to keep working and try to improve in every training session."

And De Gea says that being left out of the side for weeks hasn't knocked his confidence, or his standing in the eyes of his team-mates.

The Spaniard added: "I have always had the confidence of my team-mates and workers at Manchester United.

"Everyone who works for Manchester respected me, they tried to help me and I am very grateful to them."

Waiting

De Gea's team-mate Luke Shaw has been warned not to rush his recovery from a double leg fracture by someone who knows a thing or two about injuries.

Theo Walcott says the United left-back faces a psychological as well as physical battle over the next eight or nine months.

Shaw was injured in the Champions League against PSV and now must play a waiting game.

Walcott said: "It is important not to put a time frame on it.

"I was 11 months in the end and it is when you are ready.

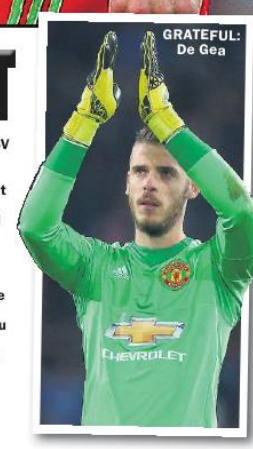
"I think it is important for everyone to know they say six months, but you have to give people time and they will come back when they are ready.

"It could be six months if you are lucky, or 10, 12 months.

"It takes time to come back to the same level from before you were out.

"I have worked hard to get where I am and I am happy.

"You just have to wait."



GRATEFUL: De Gea

TITLE TILT: Klopp needs a couple of players to press for the top spot

Jur nearly good enough to Kop a title

NEW Liverpool boss Jurgen Klopp thinks the Reds are only two or three players off mounting a title challenge.

And he starts life at the Kop today with a very short shopping list as he tries win the club's first title for 26 years.

Klopp has been on a scouting mission of his own since he knew the job was coming his way. And he thinks the Reds have more than the spine of a top-class team.

He wants to add a quality goalkeeper and central defender in January, with the back four his top priority.

Martin Skrtel and Simon Mignolet look set for the chop and he'll want a more dependable left-back than Albert Moreno too.

Klopp has identified Mats Hummels as his prime target and the Dortmund centre-back wants to be reunited with his former boss.

The 26-year-old Germany star said: "He eats, lives, breathes and thinks football day after day and is a fantastic addition to any team. I'll keep my fingers crossed for him in his next venture."

As for a keeper, another German in Bayer Leverkusen stopper Bernd Leto is the man Klopp wants.

TARGET: Mats Hummels

Spearhead

Those two would cost a combined fee of around £45million — but Liverpool can afford it because they won't have to shell out anywhere else on the pitch.

Klopp has told Anfield insiders that the club has a spine of players that are good enough to win a title.

They are Mamadou Sakho, Emre Can, Jordan Henderson, Phillipe Coutinho, Roberto Firmino, Daniel Sturridge and Christian Benteke.

Those players would fit nicely into Klopp's favourite 4-2-3-1 formation with the Belgian at the spearhead.

Assuming England right-back Nathaniel Clyne is considered good enough at right-back, just three signings would make Klopp happy.

Whether he's right or not, only time will tell.

Firmino's name being on that list might be a surprise as the Brazilian has failed to make an impact since joining Liverpool from Hoffenheim for £29m in the summer.

Klopp is a long-time admirer of the forward and tried to bring him to Dortmund last year, only to be scared off by his price tag.

He also had a long look at Benteke when Robert Lewandowski left Borussia for Bayern Munich two years ago. And he was close to signing the Villa forward at the time.

But it's not great news for James Milner, who was signed on a free from Manchester City with the promise of playing in the middle of the park.

Klopp hasn't mentioned the England international as one of the players he sees as bringing the good times back.

That said, the German has a track record of giving players a chance so there is a way back for Milner and others, like Lucas and Danny Ings.

Whatever happens, Klopp has brought the buzz back to Anfield already.

EURO 2016 GROUP E QUALIFIER:

HARDY

Jamie's got bottle to lead

NET PROFIT: Rooney scores (below) and celebrates his 50th goal for the Three Lions

ENGLAND boss Roy Hodgson can rely on Jamie Vardy to fill Wayne Rooney's boots.

By MARK NAYLOR

That's the verdict of his club boss Claudio Ranieri ahead of the last round of Euro 2016 qualifiers.

England's record scorer and captain will miss the Estonia game and is unlikely for the Lithuania match, with an ankle problem.

And, while all the talk has been of a north London partnership of Harry Kane and Theo Walcott for the Three Lions, Ranieri thinks Vardy is a better fit.

The Leicester forward is taking the Premier League by storm with his combination of work-rate and scoring power.

And the Italian thinks Vardy is more than capable of translating that form to the highest level.

Ranieri said: "It is about his character. He wants to arrive at a high level. It is amazing. This is a fantastic sport for the other players and he wants to show 'yes, he can too'.

"He is a clever man — very smart.

Presses

"He understands things immediately. There are not too many strikers like him and I think Roy maybe needs one striker like him.

"In the end it is important what you have inside, the strength and the character.

"He is very good, he is a hard worker. He presses everyone, works the channels and the space, and he is also very calm in his decision making. He has improved a lot and I am very happy with him."

It has been an amazing rise through the game for Vardy.

He's the current top scorer in the Premier League with six strikes, ahead of some of the biggest names around.

It's a far cry from working in a factory or playing for Fleetwood Town, which he

ROON AT THE TOP: Vardy can stake a claim for a regular spot while Rooney and Danny Ings (right) are both out injured was doing less than three years ago.

That might be why a broken wrist hasn't stopped Vardy from playing — and banging in the goals.

Ranieri added: "He has two broken bones but the medical staff have done very well to treat it. He wants to play and doesn't want to stop because of injury.

"We agree as long as he is safe, and if the referee says it is okay, then for us it is okay with the plaster cast.

"He is in great condition and deserves to be with England.

"He deserves to be in the squad."

Vardy's chances of figuring against Estonia have been helped by Danny Ings picking up a slight injury.

The Liverpool striker sat out training in midweek and is unlikely to start at Wembley.

Theo Walcott might get his chance in his preferred role through the middle rather than on the wing.

The Arsenal man has had a few chances there for the Gunners and has done well, even if the goals haven't been flowing.

And he says he's been speaking to Arsenal legend Thierry Henry in a bid to improve his finishing.

Analysis

The Frenchman is a youth team coach at the Emirates, but that hasn't stopped Walcott seeking him out for advice.

He said: "I've had quite a few words with Thierry behind the scenes about some of the games I've played.

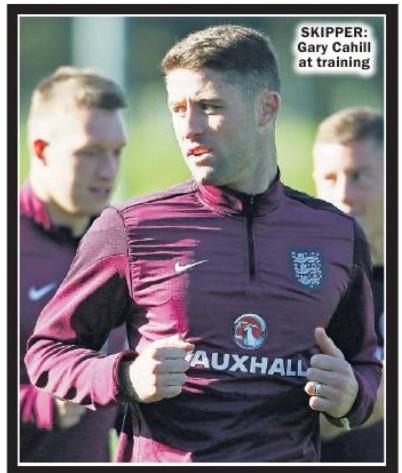
"He's given me his analysis on myself and if I've needed to ask him some questions about it, he's always there.

"I've learned over the years not to be afraid to ask because they're there to help you.

"I think that's one thing I missed maybe a couple of years ago. I thought: 'I need to know something here'.

"We just speak in a room with a TV. That's all we do.

"He's got all the attributes to become a great manager."



SKIPPER: Gary Cahill at training

Cahill is captain as Rooney skips Estonia game

WAYNE ROONEY won't be adding to his Three Lions scoring record as he is definitely out of England's game against Estonia.

The once-balding striker – who broke Sir Bobby Charlton's record last month – will be replaced as skipper by Gary Cahill as the Three Lions go for a perfect 10 in qualifying.

Rooney was again a spectator during England's training session as he recovers from the ankle injury he picked up against Arsenal last week.

He must also be a worry for the trip to face Lithuania next week — with England having nothing but their 100 per cent winning Group E record to play for.

But Rooney will still take centre stage at Wembley tonight.

He will be presented with a golden boot after breaking Charlton's England scoring record.

The 1966 World Cup winner will be there in person to hand over the momento after Rooney became No.1 from the penalty spot against Switzerland last month.

With Rooney missing, Gary Cahill is to take over the captain's armband.

Doubt

And the skipper isn't the only injury problem facing Roy Hodgson.

Liverpool striker Danny Ings was also on the sidelines despite being called up for the first time.

He's thought to be a hopeful for Lithuania and should be fit enough to be on the bench against the Estonians, even if he doesn't play.

Ings has an ankle problem that forced him off in the Merseyside derby at the weekend.

Michael Carrick is also carrying a knock and is a doubt.

But there was better news about Jonjo Shelvey who is expected to keep his place at the base of England's midfield.

John Stones has already pulled out of the squad, with Andros Townsend and Kyle Walker coming in.

DEBUT: Dele Alli

They join fellow Spurs player Dele Alli, who joins the squad at the tender age of 19.

He's thought to be a little way off breaking into the team, but it's fantastic experience for the teenager to be around the squad.

With Carrick and co coming to the end of their careers, he is part of the next generation of England players.

And Alli is enjoying the experience.

He said: "The training has been really good, really intense building up for the game. It's a great moment for me and I'm really proud to be here.

"It's always an honour to be picked for any age group for your country, and for the first team it's great for me and my family.

"It's reachable and it's down to how hard you work. It's important that all us young boys work hard."

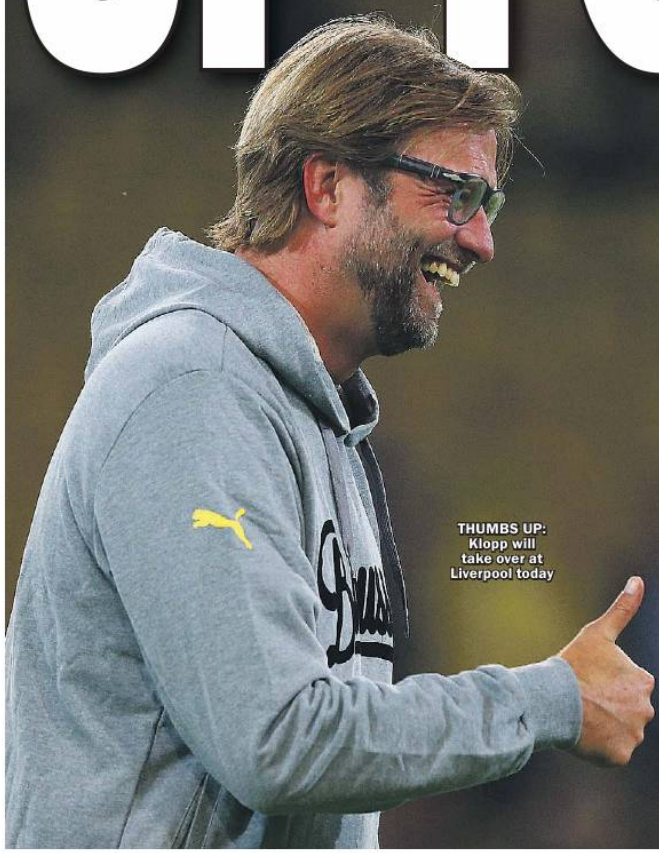
SEPP GETS SPLATTERED

NEW LIVERPOOL BOSS MAKES BIG PROMISE

KLOPP: I'M UP FOUR IT



By MARK NAYLOR

JURGEN Klopp will be unveiled as Liverpool manager today.

And he's wasted no time in promising a top four finish THIS season.

The German jetted into Merseyside last night to take over from sacked Brendan Rodgers.

The 48-year-old will be paid £5million a year as he tries to bring the good times back to the Kop.

But it's bad news for Reds coaches Gary McAllister and Sean O'Driscoll.

Klopp wants to bring in his own backroom team and are not wanted by the new gaffer.

Happy

His assistant at Dortmund, Zeljko Buvac, will be number two, with analyst Peter Krawietz also a key part of the new team.

It's the end of a five-year chase of the German by Liverpool's owners FSG. They TWICE tried to get him, in 2010 when they bought the club and before Rodgers came in.

Klopp is happy to work with the transfer committee — and says he needs only a goalie and centre-back in January to make the top four.
